JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Memo Says Pastore On Manufacturers' Side In Auto Safety; Senator Bitterly Denies Any Connection With Auto Industry; Anderson Exposed Pentagon's Discrepancies Before The Times

THE "COCKPIT" of the intensive care unit, where monitoring signals are received, is the center of activity for nurses. Sue Leigh, ward clerk, and Juanita Williams, licensed practical nurse, record data. The four tiny white spots in the right foreground of the picture are monitored signals of the heartbeats of four patients.

Intensive Care Unit Resembles Cockpit Of Large Airliner

EDITORS NOTE--This is the second of a series of articles about operations of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

By JUDY STROUP

If you have ever been inside the cockpit of a big airliner, you probably have an idea of the appearance of the intensive care unit at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The main feature of the unit is a monitoring system which projects a picture of each patient's heatbeat on an oscilliscope. The elaborate monitoring system also has an alarm device. Nurses set a limit for the patient's blood pressure reading, and if the blood pressure varies above or below those limits, an alarm is sounded.

"All this is expensive but well worth it," stated Mrs. Linda Boyd, one of the three registered nurses who supervise the intensive care unit.

"The monitoring system is the key difference between this floor and other floors."

"The first thing we do when a person comes to ICU from the emergency room or elsewhere is attach them to a monitor, start intravenous fluids, and check their vital signs, like respiration, blood pressure, and temperature. We usually start oxygen to give the heart a rest."

Intravenous fluids are started because they are vehicles for medication in the body when an injection might be impossible due to collapsed blood vessels.

The unit has four coronary beds and three intensive care beds, which are usually reserved for surgical risk patients, or for those who have suffered complications during surgery.

"Blood pressure is checked every two hours a day and every four hours a night," Mrs. Boyd said. The reason it is checked less often at night is to allow for rest periods.

Cost of an intensive care bed per day is $100.

According to Harold Jones, hospital administrator, the average cost for all services is $227 per patient day, which includes the room, intravenous fluids, nursing service, medications, inhalation therapy, and other supportive services.

"But many people cannot pay those bills," Jones said.

"You go ahead and treat them if they cannot pay and try to find some way to finance it. Often they are eligible for government money."

Pat Jones, assistant administrator, acts as a counselor for the hospital for those who cannot pay, and helps them find sources of financial aid.

Harold Jones explained that most people don't realize they are paying not only for the hospital bed, but also for the extensive services offered.

The ratio of personnel to patient in ICU is reduced too. A maximum capacity is seven patients, and four to five employes are always on duty. A ward clerk handles all paper work, which leaves a charge nurse, medication nurse, and two assistants to attend to the patients.

"The patient is more closely watched," Mrs. Boyd explained.

Personnel in intensive care are specially trained

"Besides my basic nursing, I took a three-month course at Missouri University Medical Center," the supervisor said. The course included study of abnormal heart patterns and solution of problems arising in treatment of the critical patient.

"Classes were five days a week. We came home with three months of homework, and went back for a week of examinations," Mrs. Boyd explained.

"The medication and charge nurses have had this type of training. The aides had worked on the floors before coming to intensive care, and were chosen because of their experience.

Those trained have been used as instructors for the nursing staff.

"We are one of the accepted training centers that Missouri Regional Medical Program recognizes in the state," Jones said. "It was an obligation we took before we could be funded."

The ICU was financed by this program, and Dr. Carl Popp directed the administration of the grant.

"We have really benefited from this training; nurses here adapt to emergency situations much better than before," nurse Boyd said.

After an accident or coronary victim suffers a threatening episode during treatment, he is usually kept under intensive care three to five more days. The average length of stay in ICU is four days; coronary victims average five days.

"Three weeks is about the longest a patient has stayed in intensive care," Mrs. Boyd said. Coronary patients usually are between the ages of 40 to 75.

"Children are always special," Mrs. Boyd continued. "We had one little girl who had rheumatic fever. This was just before Christmas, and she wanted a doll. One of the pediatricians brought one of his children's dolls from home. It was a Raggedy Ann that sang. We could hear the doll singing above the monitor."

One teenager, who was an active basketabll player, was placed in traction after an accident, and became depressed when he couldn't move around.

"Children are more frightened than adults," Mrs. Boyd said, "but they respond to treatment and adapt to new ideas easier."

She recalled one young man whose condition required that a permanent electronic pacemaker be installed inside his body to regulate his heartbeat. "He came back from surgery sitting straight up on the cart, with his new pacemaker installed, calling out, 'I've been recharged!" she laughed.

When asked if she became depressed when working with critically ill patients, Mrs. Boyd replied, "No, I love it. You feel the patients gets the maximum care. You feel as if you have done all you possibly can for him."

Swimming Classes to Open Monday

The Kiwanis club has announced dates for its annual swimming instruction classes.

Registration is Thursday and Friday for the lessons, which begin on next Monday and run through July 10. Registration will be at the Jaycee swimming pool.

Anyone seven or older is eligible. There will be three hour long classes daily.

A four, five and six-year-old session is scheduled July 19.

Mayor Denies City Gun War On Stray Dogs

MATTHEWS— Mayor Harold Burch said today he wants to put an end to rumors that a city employe has been shooting stray dogs at random.

"This is not true," he said. "We take stray dogs to the dog pound. We do not go around in the city shooting animals. Anyone doing so is violating the law."

The mayor said someone has shot two dogs, but whoever committed the act was not with the city "in any way."

Ferrell Named President Of Missouri's Young Democrats

Missouri Young Democrats Saturday elected William F. "Bill" Ferrell of Sikeston prisident. Ferrell succeeds Ray Webb of Kansas City.

Bill Burch of Sikeston, who nominated Ferrell, described him as "ambitious and capable of getting a job done." Ferrell was elected without opposition.

Arkansas Congressman Bill Alexander of Osceola addressed the closing session of the two-day convention Saturday night. Alexander said inflation, taxes, Social Security, unemployment, and health care will be political issues next year and challenged office seekers to appeal to the optimism of voters rather than to their frustrations. An enthusiastic supporter of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, Alexander endorsed Mills for president in 1972 saying "with a man like Wilbur Mills in the White House, a man who can provide solutions to critical problems, restore confidence in the economy, and provide direction to the meandering foreign policy, the government can again speak to the imagination of America." He said Mills has had long experience in government and is fully qualified to lead the nation as president.

"The Democrats do not need a show horse as a presidential nominee in 1972 — we need a master craftsman in government like Wilbur Mills," he said.

Jim S. Green

James S. Green was named outstanding Young Democrat for the past year. Green was general chairman of this year's state convention.

Other election results: executive vice president Jim Elliott of Warrensburg; Administrative Vice President Sue West of Jefferson City; Vice President Doug Pew of St.Louis; Vice President Bob Hequembourg of Jefferson City; Corresponding Secretary Judy Oliver of Jefferson City; Recording Secretary Bob Hasleg of Springfield; Treasurer Sam Pikey of Portageville; National Committeewoman Arlean Asel of Jefferson City; National Committeeman Bill Lockman of Kansas City; Sergeants at Arms Harriett Swinger, Jefferson City and Joe Services of Kansas City. The Saline County Young Democrats Club was named the outstanding organization in the state.

Supreme Court Agrees to Rule On Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Juveniles accused of crime can be tired without juries, the Supreme Court ruled 6 to 3 today.

The decision, delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, approved the current practice in a majority of the states.

It ended a process in the high court of affording juvenile defendants many Bill of Rights protections.

The court agreed today to rule on the legality of government wiretapping of domestic groups the Justice Department decides post a danger to national security.

The question is whether a judge must approve the wiretapping in advance. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell contends judicial approval is not necessary. The federal appeals court in Cincinnati contends it is required by the 4th Amendment to the Constitution.

The Supreme Court will hear the government's appeal from the ruling, involving surveillance of the now-defunct White Panther party, next term.

Mitchell's position is that the Justice Department, exercising a presidential power, has the constitutional authority to wiretap, without judicial approval, groups the government suspects pose a danger to national security.

The attorney general thereby draws no legal distinction between the gathering of foreign intelligence information and alleged threats from outside powers and the gathering of information "deemed necessary to protect the nation from attempts of domestic organizations" to subvert the government.

Mitchell contends all such wiretapping is not outlawed by the Fourth Amendment, which forbids "unreasonable" searches and seizures, and is authorized also by the 1968 federal crime control law.

In an appeal to the Supreme Court May 8, the Justice Department said "the line between domestic activity and foreign intelligence is often blurred, or merged."

The U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, is a 2 to 1 ruling last April, held domestic surveillance without judicial approval unlawful under the Fourth Amendment.

The case involves government wiretapping of Lawrence Plamundon, a White Panther accused of bombing a Center Intellgence Agency office at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Witnesses To Be Called In Medina Murder Trial

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Defense attorneys, seeking dismissal of charges that Capt. Ernest Medina murdered 102 villagers at My Lai, planned today to call the first of seven witnesses scheduled to testify at a pretrial hearing.

Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey said he would prove through their testimony that improper command influence was exerted in bringing Medina to trial and that he was a victim of military conspiracy.

Among the witnesses ordered to appear are Aubrey Daniel, former Army captain who successfully prosecuted Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of murder at My Lai; and Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, commanding general at Ft. McPherson.

It was not known in what order witnesses would appear, but Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, indicated Connor would not take the stand the first day because of a heavy schedule.

Bailey contended at a hearing last Wednesday that the captain's trial is the result of "improper, unethical and illegal conduct" by Army officers and that this was grounds for dropping the charges against him.

Medina is charged with murdering 102 villagers at My Lai and with assaulting one Vietnamese when Charlie Company, whic he commanded, swept through the village March 16, 1968.

Eight Charged With Breakins

BENTON— Sheriff John Dennis said today eight juveniles were arrested Saturday morning in Benton charged with breaking into the American Legion building and Bollinger's store here.

Dennis said the youths took approximately $200 worth of beer, cigarettes, and other odds and ends.

He said the juveniles were turned over to Juvenile Officer Fred Glover.

Two Brothers Arrested

BENTON— Two brothers, Elvis and Charles Kaiser, were arrested by highway patrolmen after a fighting incident east of Miner, Sheriff John Dennis said today.

Dennis said the pair are in Scott County jail at Benton. Charles Kaiser is charged with public intoxication.

Dennis said the patrol chased Elvis Kaiser to Kluge's Hill, north of Sikeston, where he was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Saturday. When asked for information about the incident, a spokesman at highway patrol headquarters in Poplar Bluff said he "had no information on it."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

So many people spend so much time trying to have a good time, and don't have it.

* * *

HANOI'S CREDIBILITY SLUMPS TO ZERO

In the more than three years since the North Vietnamese began meeting with the Allies in Paris, ostensibly to arrange peace in South Vietnam, the enemy spokesmen have refused to release any prisoners of war. With a victory for the Allies at hand, they want us to surrender first.

Now they want us to believe they might have given something in exchange for the return to North Vietnam of 570 war prisoners held in South Vietnam. But only thirteen of the 570 wanted to go back to their homeland. The others may have feared reprisals for having been taken prisoners. Or else they simply preferred living in a free country, even in prison, than living as "free" men under Communist rule. So Hanoi threw up a great smokescreen, rather than accept the few wounded men who were willing to return to that unhappy country.

The Communists' expressions of scorn for the South Vietnamese' offer to send back any of the 570 prisoners who wished to go, regardless of whether the enemy reciprocated, was entirely expectable. It is an old Communist custom. Communists' words have no credibility. They will do whatever they want to whenever they decide. Nothing they say is worth listening to for reliable meaning. That is the record of more than three years of effort. The peace table, whether round, square, or oval or oblong, is only another site for conflict: war in a different form. Let us never weary in the struggle.

We guess that they'll simmer down and finally agree that it is alright for the church to do this, because it looks like the churches and the trust funds of the rich, who were created by the deceased, that that is the only way they can get rid of the money and they don't apparently care how much trouble they are causing by this.

NEWSPAPERS ARE RETAILER'S BASIC ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Recently, the nation's leading advertising agency executives received an important lesson on the importance of newspaper advertising from the sales promotion manager of one of the largest retail advertisers, J. C. Penney Company.

William R. Johnson told the gathering of the American Association of Advertising Agencies that newspaper advertising is the "backbone of our advertising effort" and warned the agency men against believing this is only because it is "traditional."

"Our store managers know that their newspaper ads produce sales dollars," he said. "They are perfectly willing, even eager, to use radio and television in carefully selected lines, but don't try to cut back on their newspaper budget."

His explanation of the effectiveness of newspapers for a retailer tells it better than many newspaper salesmen:

"I think all you have to do is recall how your wife reads her paper. She reads it like a shopping news. Sure she reads the news, the editorials, but if she wants to outfit her kids with shoes for school, she looks through the retail ads in the paper to find out who's selling what kind of shoes, at how much ... or how much they've been reduced.

"Sometimes she even tears out the ad and carries it into the store. Every Penney manager has seen this happen hundreds of times. He has yet to see a woman come into the store carrying radio or television commercial. And he cannot imagine a woman sitting in front of a television set all day waiting for a children's shoe commercial. Can you?"

THE RIGHT TO PUBLISH

The federal government is not justified in trying to repress newspaper publication of a report on the Vietnam war written under direction of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967.

Melvin R. Laird, the present Defense Secretary, was wrong in asking the Justice Department to act against the New York Times for printing stories based on the report.

No newspaper should be sued or threatened with prosecution for publishing stories involving the government's action.

United States District Murray I. Gurfein has acted unwisely in ordering a temporary halt — until Saturday — to publication of the stories. He should have dismissed the suit brought by the Justice Department.

Freedom of the press is the fundamental cornerstone of our democracy. If that freedom vanishes with fear of a government crackdown on reporters and editors, democracy itself will die. If the Justice Department could prove someone stole the McNamara report from the Pentagon, then let the Attorney General and his staff prosecute the culprit for theft of printed matter.

That is the only area where the Justice Department has jurisdiction in this case.

A quite different situation is the attempt to halt publication of a report conveniently stamped "top secret" by person or persons unknown to the American public.

Even conceding the possibility national security could be menaced in some measure by publication of the stories — though it is difficult to perceive how — we are better off running this risk than to submit to the stifling hand of government suppression.

The right to write and the right to read are absolutely essential if a government truly is to exist with the consent of the governed.

We feel the government risks ridicule by invoking the Espionage Act against the New York Times, its publisher and 21 other reporters, editors and officers of the company.

The espionage law states:

"Whoever having unauthorized possession of, access to, or control over any document, writing, code book . . . or information relating to the national defense which information the possessor has reason to believe could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation, wilfully communicates, delivers, transmits the same to any person not entitled to receive it . . . shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned more than 10 years, or both."

The government would appear to be on very shaky ground indeed in trying to prove the American people do not have the right to know the contents of a Pentagon report on what went on in Vietnam prior to 1967.

Embarrassment? Perhaps. Espionage? Hardly!

There is a moral for all War on Poverty programs, and that moral is classically expressed in the Dallas program. It has used 60% or more of its funds for salaries and expenses to run a foul anti-establishment political club, going so far as to hire friends of SNCC and Che Guevara. The local program has purposely divided city and county authorities by threatening violence; hence, when the city buckled under, it left the responsbility to do what is right at the doorstep of County Judge Lew Sterrett. Sterrett is a politically wise and battle-scarred veteran who learned along the way that the people he represents will not tolerate — for very long — the misuse of their tax funds. That is why he called on Governor Preston Smith to withhold funds from the local program until, as it were, the rascals in the Dallas Community Action Program are removed. Smith, to his eternal credit, agreed. Moral: Only brave and principled men can make OEO work, but it takes years off one's life.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Man wouldn't breathe as well without forests. An acre of young and growing woodland yields four tons of oxygen a year—enough to satisfy the needs of a dozen people.

Overeating may make some people more susceptible to the invasion of cancer. Laboratory studies have produced evidence that underfed rats don't develop cancerous tumors as often as those that are overfed.

The marriage mill in Leningrad is the state-owned Palace of Weddings where every day, including Sunday, couples can be wed during an eight-minute ceremony costing $1.65. Champagne and flowers are available but—just as in capitalistic countries—they come extra.

Quotable notables: "Maybe if we could all laugh, and laugh at the same time, this world of ours wouldn't be able to find so many things to squabble about."—Bob Hope.

Have your parents ever told you the first words you uttered as a child? It is reported that the first sentence by Ernest Hemingway, spoken before his second birthday, was: "I don't know Buffalo Bill."

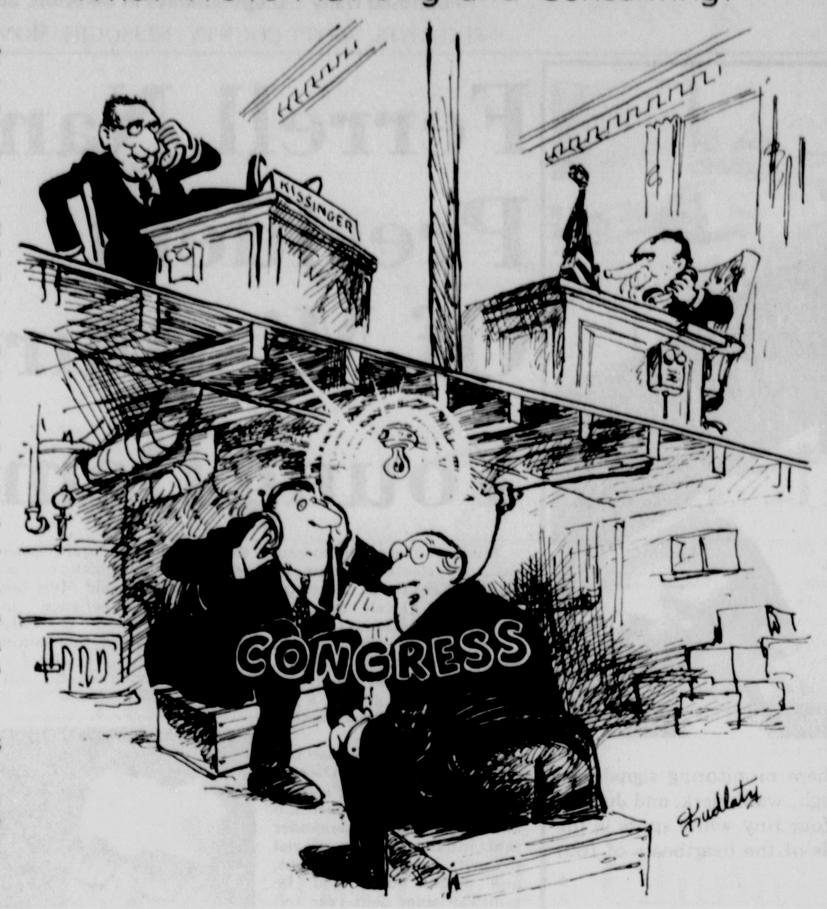

Durable: The monarch butterfly is one of the most colorful of earth's migrants and looks to be one of the most fragile. Yet in its erratic pilgrimages it travels thousands of miles at a speed of up to 20 miles an hour.

Sun peril: Recent studies have confirmed the fact that ultraviolet rays from the sun are implicated in lip cancer—so beware this danger in getting a fashionable summer tan. Because they spend more time outdoors and don't wear lipstick, men are more likely than women to get lip cancer. Men living in southern areas of the United States also get twice as many lip cancers as those who live farther north, where the sun's rays are weaker.

Worth remembering: "Happiness is like potato salad. When you share it with others, everybody has a picnic."

Fertile but not original. The United States is a rich agricultural country, but, according to the National Geographic Society, not one of its major crops or plant fibers originated on the North American continent. A few that did are the sunflower, blueberry, cranberry and pecan.

INDUSTRY SOLVES REFUSE PROBLEM

One of the answers to the problem of air pollution by incinerators is the use of compaction, which automatically compresses all kinds of refuse, cans, bottles, food, even tough bundles of newspapers into a compact cylindrical slug.

The International Dynetics Corp., of Norwalk, Conn., has developed a family of advanced compactors to solve most business and consumer needs. Their larger unit has an adjustable compaction ratio of more than 10 to 1, and will handle over 20 tons of refuse per day. The refuse is sprayed with a deodorizer and insecticide and is then automatically ejected into can or bag. The unit runs only when there is refuse to be processed.

Seymour Ostreicher, president of the company, says that the present orders for the unites are greater than inventory.

A TRAGIC DEATH

Freddie Steinmark was a small man as athletes go, but he had the determination of a champion and that is what he was. When final rites were conducted and the last homage paid in his hometown of Denver, Colo., a photograph of Freddie in his University of Texas football uniform bearing his famous jersey number, 28, stood near the casket.

Many in this nation may not have remembered that number but they remembered Freddie's courage. One of those who remembered both was University of Texas football coach Darrell Royal. Royal remembered also that when Freddie Steinmark came to the University of Texas the youngster from Colorado weighed only 155 pounds. Coach Royal would later say that Freddie had 155 pounds of heart. He not only made the team, but he helped carry it to a national championship.

Even as Freddie Steinmark was playing his final game for the University of Texas, he was suffering the pains of a cancerous leg. Doctors at M.D. Anderson Hospital diagnosed it as sarcoma cancer. The doctors amputated 20 year old Freddie's left leg and began a battle to save his life with chemo-therapy. Freddie fought, too. That was in 1969. He continued his fight into the spring of 1971 and an entire nation pulled for him to survive. But Freddie and the doctors lost the battle with cancer.

Had the working tools of the doctors matched Freddie's courage, they would have won. So would hundreds of thousands of other cancer victims. B[illegible] tools are not available yet. The doctors must have those tools. Science and money and determination like Freddie's eventually will find them. A national effort must be made to hasten that day of triumph. Freddie Steinmark's death should not be in vain. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--A confidential memo between Ford executives shows how the auto company has been lobbying in the backrooms against tougher safety standards.

The memo also indicates that Senator John Pastore, D-R.I., a key member of the committee shaping auto safety legislation, is talking out of both sides of his mouth.

The company apparently found a Ford dealer in Pastore's home state who is close to the Senator. Bob Tasca, a Providence Ford dealer and fellow Italian-American, was asked to talk to Pastore.

In a report on the conversation, Ford's community affairs manager, Richard Powers, wrote: "The Senator...told Bob that when a consumer issue is before him and the cameras are on, he is not about to be anything but supportive of the issue."

But the memo went on: "The Senator reiterated that 'we will handle the situation.' He said 'we must be certain that the auto industry survives and profitably' and that 'something has to be done to stem the tide of the adverse publicity that the industry is getting.'"

Both Pastore and Tasca admitted they had discussed the auto safety legislation, but they claimed the confidential Ford document has misquoted them.

The memo, addressed to A.W. Merrell, Ford's vice president in charge of governmental affairs, deals with the company's efforts to soften the safety standards for automobiles.

The automakers are most upset by proposed regulations that would compel them to strengthen car bumpers. We have already reported on Ford's backstage lobbying. Henry Ford II has gone so far as to call upon President Nixon reportedly to brief him on the problems the automakers would have in meeting the proposed regulations.

--FORD'S LOBBYING--

Now it appears Ford has also tried to influence Pastore who, at a Senate Commerce hearing, put on a show of debunking John Nevin, a Ford vice president who has just resigned to become president of Zenith.

"For what it's worth," begins Richard Power's confidential memo, dated June 4, 1971, "it appears that we have not lost Senator Pastore...Bob Tasca met with the Senator last night and discussed the bill again with him and his critical comments during John Nevin's testimony."

The memo indicated that Pastore had been harsh on Nevin because "the cameras were on" but that he was willing to help Ford's cause behind the kleig lights. He was quoted as assuring Tasca that "we will handle the situation."

The memo adds: "(Pastore) suggested that he and Tasca should meet quarterly so that Tasca could bring him up to date on developments in the automobile industry."

News of Pastore's backstage cooperation, continues the memo, "has been relayed to the Washington staff."

Pastore explosively denied to us that he had engaged in any such conversation. "I can't help what Bob Tasca said to anybody. It sounds to me like somebody is trying to look like a bigshot" by bragging of his influence with him, the Senator said.

After our inquiries, Tasca and Powers got together on the long-distance phone and agreed upon a common story.

"I wrote the memo," Powers told us, "but it is apparently wrong. Evidently a lot of things got lost in translation. I wrote the memo to my boss purely as an information piece. It was not quite correct. All I can do is apologize."

--PENTAGON SECRETS--

We have been able, occasionally, to compare the Pentagon's secret papers with its public pronouncements. The discrepancies, as we have noted from time to time, have been dismaying.

This is now evident from the Vietnam documents that the New York Times has laid before the public. But the unpublished documents, still in Pentagon use, are no more candid than the historical documents published by the Times.

For instance, the Nixon Administration has emphasized repeatedly that it is winding down the war. Yet at the same time, it has updated contingency plans for a devastating aerial assault upon North Vietnam.

These top-secret plans, drawn up last October by General Creighton Abrams in Saigon and transmitted to the Pentagon on October 17, offer options for a three-day, seven-day or ten-day aerial offensive. The contingency papers include detailed plans for the bombing and mining of Haiphong Harbor.

This, of course, would be a dangerous escalation of the war. Soviet shipping in the harbor almost certainly would be hit, inviting the Kremlin to retaliate.

Administration spokesman have also denied that American ground troops have crossed into Cambodia or Laos since the U.S. withdrawal from Cambodia last June. Secret Pentagon papers show, however, that MACSOG teams, made up of U.S. special forces and South Vietnamese rangers, made several raids into both countries up until the end of November.

The Cambodian raids were known by the secret code name "Salem House" and the Laos raids were identified as "Prairie Fire." Some of the teams were ambushed by waiting North Vietnamee who obviously had been tipped off in advance.

During the U.S. drive into Cambodia a year ago, spokesmen at first stated and later denied that a principal objective was the capture of COSVN, the secret North Vietnamese headquarters in Cambodia. Secret Pentagon papers recall that Defense Secretary Mel Laird, in a message to General Creighton Abrams, urged COSVN's capture.

Abrams thought he knew where COSVN was located, because the Army had intercepted radio messages from the North Vietnamese command center. Crack troops zeroed in on the location but found no sign of the headquarters. By continuing to monitor enemy radio transmissions, the Army continued a hop-skip-and-jump chase but never caught up with COSVN.

WAR SPENDING DOWN-SHARPLY: Defense (Dept.) Action Council Has Double Duty; Dollars Solving Critical Domestic Problems.

by Victor Riesel

There is the impression that every dollar appropriated for the Pentagon winds up in a bigger bang cannon, bomber or bullet. Those who watch the Dept. of Defense closely know that many billions for the defense of a way of life, development of ideas, training of men, and tranquility on the domestic front.

When I asked Defense Secretary Melvin Laird for his views on what was his department's most significant contribution, in addition to the protection of this nation, he analyzed the role of the defense dollar in our tense, teeming, often explosive home front.

Here is his analysis, written in specific answer to my specific question:

By Melvin R. Laird
Secretary of Defense

Washington: -- A recent Gallup Poll found that one-half of the American people think too much is being spent for defense. Forty-two per cent think the amount spent for defense is about right or is too little, and the remaining eight per cent don't know.

Such polls have consistently shown roughly similar results over the past several years.

They have also shown that these judgments are based on faculty and scanty information. Very few people (only 8 per cent, according to a Gallup Poll in 1970) can give even an approximation of the amount spent for defense. Most are unaware of the great shifts in the federal budget which have taken place during the Nixon Administration, reducing the share devoted to defense from 43 per cent of the national government's expenditure in 1968 to 32 per cent during the upcoming fiscal year. Most do not know that less than 7 per cent of the Gross National Product will go for defense in fiscal year 1972 and that the new Strategy of Realistic Deterrence adopted by the Administration aims to keep defense spending below that 7 per cent level.

Most people, when they think of defense spending, do not appear to have caught up with current history. They are still thinking of the past when our country was increasing its involvement in combat in Vietnam, when almost 10 per cent of the Gross National Product was spent on defense, and when defense spending was constantly rising.

The polls reveal one further misconception about defense spending. They show that most people think that every dollar spent for defense is a dollar taken away from the accomplishment of the social purposes of the nation and from the solution of pressing domestic problems. The dollar allotted to the Department of Defense, they believe, is a dollar that does not help to improve the education, the health, the housing, the environment of the American people or to bring closer to them any of the other things that make for a better life.

In fact, however, many defense dollars do double duty. Every dollar spent by the Department of Defense has, of course, a defense purpose. But very often it serves other purposes as well and contributes significantly to the solution of those domestic problems which give us all great concern.

We do not usually think of the armed forces as an educational institution, but education is one of their major activities. In vocational education, they offer training of a scope unmatched in any civilian school system. And about 85 per cent of the skills for which the armed forces train their personnel are skills that are used in the civilian job market. Further, approximately 15 per cent of those in military service are pursuing academic courses--all but a few as part-time students in addition to regular military duties--at all levels in the educational structure. The armed forces also maintain an elementary and secondary school system for the children of military personnel, chiefly overseas, which is as large as the public school systems in such states as South Dakota, Rhode Island, or Idaho.

In the field of health, the Department of Defense has always made an important contribution to improved care and treatment for the people of the nation. The introduction of smallpox vaccination into the United States and the discovery of the cure for yellow fever are among the great advances in medicine for which the military can claim credit. The ambulance was a military invention, and today the use of the helicopter for medical evacuation is being introduced in civilian medical practice after the armed forces did the pioneering work in combat theaters. Among other discoveries that military medicine has made available area anti-malarial drugs, a vaccine to prevent some forms of meningitis and typhus, techniques for treating burns and grafting and replacing tissue, and effective equipment for the management of trauma and shock.

After careful study, the Department of Defense has evolved a plan for a new type of hospital which will be far more efficient functionally and less costly to operate than the traditional hospital. We shall build a prototype, which will serve as a model for construction of such a facility for future years.

Still another field in which dollars spent by the Defense Department help to show the way toward solution of a major social problem is the field of housing. At George Air Force Base in California, we are building at the rate of one house each day, 200 housing units constructed in various combinations of standard modules produced by a factory at the construction site. We expect the cost of these homes to be 15 to 20 per cent lower than conventional construction. This example of what can be done will help to put good housing within the reach of a great number of families in our nation who are now priced out of the market.

I could go indefinitely with further examples of activity carried on by the Defense Department in a number of fields that provides substantial benefits to civilian society in addition to insuring the security of the nation.

For example, because of the research and development work done by the armed forces, people can travel by air with greater speed in greater comfort and safety than would otherwise be possible. Most modern commercial aircraft are adaptions of planes originally developed for the armed forces. The technology that provides automated air traffic control systems was pioneered in the Defense Department. Radar, with its many uses in the field of transportation, exploration of the earth's surface, and weather prediction, first came into use in the armed forces in World War II.

The use of satellites for communication, navigation, mapping and weather observation is another example of a defense initiative which brings benefits to the entire society.

Through an agency which I established in the Department of Defense called the Domestic Action Council, I have sought to see to it that more defense dollars do double duty, collaborating with civilian agencies in dealing with social problems.

It is impossible to give a precise estimate of how much defense spending helps to solve our domestic problems. The President's budget for 1972 estimates that $7.5 billion of the funds requested for the Defense Department for the coming fiscal year will serve such social purposes as education, manpower training, housing, environmental improvement, health, income security, and reduction of crime.

What is clear to anyone familiar with the armed forces is that it is fallacious to draw a sharp line between defense spending and spending for the betterment of American society. Much that is done by the military with funds made available for defense promotes the physical, intellectual, and moral development of the entire society at the same time that it strengthens security and improves the prospects for peace.

Ann Landers

Widow Who Cooks May Scare off Bachelor

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away 18 months ago. He was a wonderful man and we had a good life together, but I realize he is gone forever and now I must make a new life for myself.

I am 43, look younger, and have always kept myself up. I have a problem about men. The ones who have asked me out do not interest me. I see no point in accepting dates just to be seen in public with a male.

The man I would like very much to go out with is my dentist. He was divorced several years ago and he is just about my age. (Maybe a couple of years younger.) He has always treated me in a somewhat formal manner, but I believe this is just his professional posture. He sent me a condolence card when my husband passed away. I considered this a friendly gesture.

I'm a good cook and would like to prepare a delicious meal for this man. I'll bet he gets tired eating in restaurants all the time. Should I give him a call?---Wondering In Tulsa

Dear Wonder: Only if you get a toothache. Nothing scares off a bachelor faster than a widow---who cooks.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is planning to be married in the fall. We all like the young man very much. There is one small problem. My husband had a bone disease as a child and it affected his hip. He has a noticeable limp. Our daughter wants a church wedding, which means she would walk down the aisle on the arm of her father. Both my husband and my daughter are unconcerned about his handicap. They see nothing wrong with a man limping from the back of the church all the way to the altar. I'm afraid the effect might be depressing--or even ludicrous. Perhaps my brother should give the bride away. What is your opinion?---Objective Mother

Dear Ob: The only thing depressing or ludicrous is your attitude. If the father of the bride has a limp---so what? He should not be deprived of one of the greatest joys of his life simply because he has a physical handicap. Your suggestion that an uncle substitute for him is unthinkable.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago when my son was barely 20 he married an 18-year-old girl because she told him she was pregnant. As it turned out she was not, which was a big relief because she would have been a very poor mother.

Zora comes from a family of alcoholics and mental defectives. It nearly killed me when my son married her but I kept my mouth shut. The girl did not graduate from high school. She ignored all suggestions that she enroll in night school and get a diploma. She sleeps all day, reads garbage, watches TV all night, does no housework and drinks beer with her neighbors. A good marriage this isn't.

Last night my son called and asked if he could drop over with a surprise. I said, "Of course." He came in with an attractive young woman who seemed well educated and beautifull mannered. I was cordial. Period. This morning my son called and asked, "How do you like her?" I replied "As far as I am concerned you are a married man. I have nothing more to say."

My husband says I let the boy down. He says our son was seeking approval and I should have given it. Is he right?---His Mother

Dear Mother: No--he is not right. Your son showed irresponsibility and poor taste. He is still married and he should not be bringing a girl to your house for approval, or for anything else.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits--the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex--Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Catalina--Big Tourist Hit

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island--Catalina, a moutainous island ridge jutting out of the Pacific just 22 miles off Los Angeles, the big tourist attraction in Southern California in the thirties, was the spring training camp for the Chicago Cubs and big bands, like Benny Goodman and others, played to crowds in Avalon's large casino, where Hollywood also previewed many new films. In this golden age Avalon, a picturesque mixture of Cape Cod and early Spanish architecture, was always crowded.

Soliders and sailors took over the 76 square-mile island, with its 55 miles of rugged coastline, during World War II, and by the time they left Catalina had taken a back seat in the West's expanding tourist picture.

Today, Catalina is once again in the big time travel picture. New motels, hotels and restaurants have been built and old ones modernized. The big name brands are back at the casino.

"Visitors to Catalina, coming over in the morning and returned to the mainland that night, can enjoy a number of different-type day trips," Continental Airlines travel experts said. "Regularly scheduled sightseeing tours, by both bus and by boat, are operated from Avalon."

The most popular of these is the 40-minute bus trip around Avalon itself, and its surroundings. It passes through the town's permanent residential area, past most of the hotels and inns, the Catalina Visitors Country Club--open to all--and up into the hills overlooking the city, with a breathtaking view of the Bay and sweeping jagged coastline.

A long land tour, taking almost four hours, winds around most of the island's back country, with several stops, including one at the El Rancho Escondido, a working ranch where pure breed Arabian horses are bred.

Nearly all visitors, too, explore Catalina's Undersea Gardens on a glass bottom boat tour, which lasts about an hour and offers fascinating views of multi-colored sea life and growths. There's also a one-hour night boat trip to see the island's famous flying fish. The tour boat's searchlight arouses whole schools of them, causing them to soar up and out of the water.

"Another popular boat trip," says Continental's travel experts, "is along the shoreline to the island's eastern tip, where great numbers of sea lions make their year-round home on the rocks. Many of the performing seals you see in circuses and zoos come from here."

Blake-Schneider

DEXTER — Glowing tapers illuminated the sanctuary of the First Christian Church last Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Miss Linda May Schneider, Dexter, exchanged marriage vows with Denny Truman Blake of Malden.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider, Dexter, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Agnes Blake, Malden and the late Truman Blake.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the church pastor, the Rev. Stanley Land.

Mrs. Ben Cowan Jr., provided a medley of pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Stanley Land as she sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt in prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal gown of while voile, underskirted with taffeta peau-de-soie. Venise galloon fashion lace was threaded with white stain ribbon and covered the Cameo collar which accented the empire bodice. The lace encircled the waist and two rows was inserted through the bodice both in front and back. Lace overlaid the deep cuff and banded the top of the full Dresden sleeves. The Demi-bell skirt was softly gathered at the side and back waist, and a band of the lace was inserted through the bottom of the skirt. Her chapel length mantilla veil of double bridal illusion was completely edged with matching ribbon-threaded lace, and was held secure with a contour cap of organza loops and flowers.

Miss Schneider carried a simplicity hand bouquet of white daisies and blue daisies, yellow roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Cathy Cox Dunaway, Starkville, Miss., was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Miss Susan Greenquist, St. Louis.

Candlelighters were Steve Schneider Dexter, brother of the bride, and Steve Shelton, Puxico. They were attired in blue suits with yellow rosebud boutonnieres.

Bill Hampton of Campbell was best man and groomsman was Gary Shelton, Dexter.

Attending to the seating of the guests were Jim Schneider, Dexter, brother of the bride, and Wesley Shelton, Malden.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. LaJuana Fowler, Cape Girardeau, was at the guest book and also assisted at the reception.

Mrs. Bonnie Jent of Spencer, Ind., Mrs. Tommy Clark and Mrs. Karen Williams, Dexter, presided at the serving table.

The former Miss Schneider attended the University of Missouri and received a BS degree, dietetic internship at Barnes Hospital. She will be employed as a dietitian at Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau.

The bridegroom received a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Missouri and is an accountant for Hoche and Barklage, a certified public accounting firm of Cape Girardeau.

New Broadcast Center Planned At University

LAKE OZARK, Mo. (AP) — Roy Fisher, new dean of the school of journalism at the University of Missouri in Columbia, says expansion and modernization of the school is being planned.

Fisher told the Missouri Broadcasters Association Thursday that he envisions a new broadcast center that will provide training unmatched anywhere.

He cited the closing of the training school for linetype operators as one effort to modernize.

Recipe for Fun By Girl Scouts

PORTAGEVILLE — A Girl Scout recipe for fun, friendship, tasty food, camping skills, crafts and good citizenship compiled by Kampers Kapers Girl Scout Day Camp.

Mix 64 Girl Scouts, ages seven through 17, from Portageville, New Madrid, Kewanee and Lilbourn neighborhoods from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for five days into a primitive campsite at Schallert Pecan Grove near Boekerton.

Blend adult leaders and three program aide trainees interested in above ingredients, divide into five units, one Brownie unit of second grade students, three junior units consisting of third, fourth and fifth graders; and one cadette unit of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

Add outdoor cooking, hiking, games, singing and crafts for Brownies; 8 requirements for proficiency badges for junior scouts in cyclist, 11 requirements for gypsy and 7 requirements for weaving and basketry; include three overnites in tents for cadettes to complete pioneer badge requirements and three program aide trainees striving to learn skills for day camp staff membership.

Stir with daily camp opening flag ceremonies; rain showers dampening cooking fires; numerous lost and found items; first year unit leaders; minor physical accidents and goof - ups; and a fast pace to complete craft and badge projects for eager Girl Scouts.

Bake with a closing camp program for parents and guests, moved from the campsite into the Portageville park community building because of enduring rain showers. During baking, sprinkle in songs, hiking safety skit, safe cyclist rules, display handmade woven potholders, cracker baskets, macrame belts, tie dyed tee shirts in red, blue, green, purple and orange for unit identification, plastic ponchos, miser bags, booklets, braided belts, amusing stories of camp happenings, camp awards to most eager camper, quietest, dirtiest, best all around, comedian, laziest, best story teller, heaviest dunking bag, most cooperative, most accident prone, and many thank-you expressions to parents for transportation, camp shopper, campsite owners who drilled water pump, and pioneer unit visitors who brought snacks.

Follow recipe directions carefully for happy memories, enduring friendships, useful skills and good citizenship.

Ecology Help From the Bible

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A minister's wife who heads a church environmental advisory group says part of the world pollution problem may stem from misinterpretation of the Bible.

"People read in the Bible that man should have dominion over the earth," said Mrs. Robert Rea of Atlanta, "and they forget it also says nature should be exalted for its own sake."

Mrs. Rea, whose husband is associate pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, is the chairman of the Advisory Group on Environment established last fall by the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

Her advisory group is engaged in the production of educational materials for distribution by the church in May during an environmental emphasis month.

The group has recommended the church make environmental education a permanent part of its religious curriculum.

"If we start educating children through the church," she said, "it might produce dividends for all of us in the years ahead. The church is a logical place for that. It has been almost a Christian fault that some of this has happened. We can trace it biblically."

Reading Is Activity

By SUSAN McKEE
Indianapolis Star Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "Reading, like all the language arts, is an activity, not a 'passivity.' Parents and teachers must set the example by reading to children," says Dr. Barbara Pilon, assistant professor of education at Indiana-Purdue University, Indianapolis.

"Kids love to be read to long past the primary grades," she continues. "I read to students in my college classes almost every week and they love it.

"Learning is a joyful process. Little children are so anxious to start school.

"Then they can't wait to drop out because so many teachers, perhaps mindlessly, are helping children to fail. We've got to get in there and fight. An awful lot of children's lives are at stake."

For Dr. Pilon, getting in there to fight meant switching from being an elementary schoolteacher and language arts consultant to university teaching.

"In a classroom I reached 30 children a year. At IPI I've taught 500 teachers who have at least 15,000 pupils in their classrooms. If only a few of those teachers have listened to me!

"There are only a few hours in the day and so many things to help students understand. I can't do everything in one semester, so I hope I inspire my students to go on. I hope to give them a love of teaching."

Reading is only one of Dr. Pilon's concerns. Interrelated language arts are listening, speaking and writing.

"There are many games parents can play with children to help them listen better," Dr. Pilon says.

"Communication is a two-way street. If parents and teachers don't listen to children, the children are likely to return the favor.

"Adults, too, must be aware that children have different meanings than they do for the same words. Take the simple sentence, 'A chicken is a bird who lives on a farm.' To a city youngster, 'chicken' and 'bird' have meanings far removed from poultry."

Actress Jo Ann Pflug Is Versatile and Talented

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The script notes for the movie "M-A-S-H" called for "the sexiest looking nurse in military history."

The planned production of a Western adventure film, "Catlow," calls for a strait - laced Spanish noblewoman.

Chosen to play both those roles was an eye-appealing actress with an unappealing name — Jo Ann Pflug. Pronounce it "Floog."

With a name like that you've got to be versatile — and talented.

Jo Ann is more than that, as even a quick glance will attest. Heads turn in her direction when she walks into the room — all 5-feet-9 1/2 inches of her — with her long lovely legs pulchritudinously poking out of a brown maxiskirt slit up, and up, and up, all the way up to the gunpowder in her cartridge belt.

She's an expressive and exuberant young lady, with a flair for comedy which has kept her quite busy since "M-A-S-H."

"I've made a career of 'M-A-S-H,'" jokes the Atlanta-born actress who played Lt. Dish in the popular war comedy. That's not altogether true, though "Catlow" is the first film she's doing since "M-A-S-H."

The Western — "I'm practicing my side-saddle" — is to be filmed in Spain. She'll have the second female lead — "She's very much like me: she's not married either, and she's strong-willed" — and will play opposite Yul Brynner and Richard Crenna.

JO ANN PFLUG

In the meantime, she has done a good deal of television work and a TV movie. She's particularly enjoyed doing comedies.

"People want laughter now," says Miss Pflug, who would like to be a Kay Kendall-type comedienne, "a maintainer of femininity while being funny."

Did "M-A-S-H" help her career?

"It couldn't do anything but. I was unknown before. It made people in the business and the public aware of who I was. It's all very flattering; it was a long time ago that picture came out. I still get a lot of fan mail from fellows in Vietnam. From Japan. I answer them all personally. If someone takes the time to write you a letter, it's only courtesy to write back."

But, it's all been somewhat frustrating too for the tall, talent. "You have to wait to be offered a script. I had offers — not that many, but a number. But for one reason or another, they didn't work out.

"My head is at a level where I'd like to put together my own package. But I'm not 'big' enough I have that intellect, but not that stature."

Acting is the only thing she's ever really wanted to do. She won her first beauty contest at age 6, when a photographer snapped her picture and "he caught that devilment . . . I was looking over my shoulder; that's my best view." She was in many other beauty contests, and was runnerup for Miss Miami Beach while attending the University of Miami.

"I tried 20 million professions," she says, "but acting is the only thing I really wanted to do. Acting is the only profession a woman can do and be rewarded just for her talent. And everyone has that desire for recognition.

"Nursing, doctor, lawyer, school teaching, I can't do that. Secretary. I could never be confined. I like freedom; to do what I want to do.

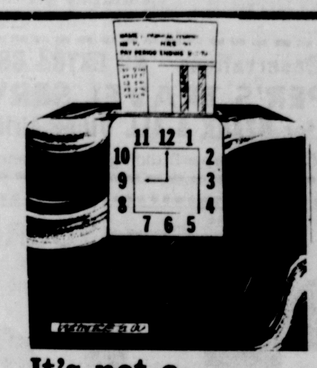

"I'm weird in that I don't worry about making a living. The more I expect, the more I get. I'm a positive thinker. I don't believe in failure."

Cardinals End Skid; KC Splits Twinbill

Kansas City's Royals entertained a record crownd Sunday by coming up with a split with the California Angeles, while St. Louis played the soiler for the Chicago Cubs by a 5-4 margin in the Windy City.

A Cap Day crowd of 35,295, the largest in Kansas City's baseball history saw the Royals win the opener 5-1 behind the pitching and hitting of Bruce Dal Canton.

And the Royals looked like they might sweep the win bill until pitcher Tom Murphy hit a two-run double in the fourth to put the Angels ahead to stay in the night cap. The visitors ended up on the long end of an 8-4 margin.

In the first game, Dal Canton laced a two-run single and Chuck Harrison drove in a pair. Jim Spencer homered in the sixth for the only California run.

In addition to Murphy's fireworks in the second game, Spencer accounted for two runs with a single and Roger Repoz singled home another. Spencer tripled home an insurance run in the ninth.

Kansas City has won 15 out of its last 20 games.

In Chicago, Jim Beauchamp tripled home hot-hitting Joe Torre with a tying run in the eighth, then scored on Gerry McNertney's single, to give the Cards their winning margin.

Torre had homered and singled in another run. He collected four straight hits—his second such feat of this series. He accounted for the Cards first two runs, the first on the homer, the second when he singled in Matty Alou.

Joe Pepitone, who went into the game with seven straight hits, grounded out in the fourth to end the streak, but homered in the ninth for the Cubs' final run. That extended his hitting string to 19 games.

Tonight Kansas City meets the White Sox at 8 o'clock in Chicago with Jim Rooker getting the call for the Royals against Tommy John.

St. Llouis is at Los Angeles, with Bob Gibson getting back into the lineup, facing Bob O'Brien. That game starts at 10 p.m.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers Sunday signed Rob Ellis, their number one choice in the secondary phase of the free agent draft last week.

Bob Gibson

Gibby Returns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Gibson, who was 23-7 with 23 complete games last season with the St. Louis Cardinals, was taken off the 21-day disabled list Sunday by the National League Club.

Gibson, whose lack of control and consistency has led to a 4.27 earned run average, is 4-5. He is slated to start Monday night's game against Los Angeles rookie Bobby O'Brien, 1-1, in the first of a three-game series.

The Cards placed Gibson on the disabled list May 29 after he pulled a thigh muscle running out a base hit in a home game against Atlanta.

Last season, his earned run average was 3.12. This season, he's pitched only 78 innings.

O'Brien, a relief pitcher for the Dodgers in nine appearances, is making his first major league start.

Pirates Open Lead

The gates appeared to be swinging open for the New York Mets, but Deron Johnson and Willie Stargell slammed them shut in a hurry.

Philadelphia salvaged a doubleheader split at New York Sunday by beating the Mets 9-7 in 11 innings on Johnson's first bases-loaded home run in 15 professional seasons.

While the Phillies were rebounding from a 7-6 loss in the opener, the Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind to complete a doubleheader sweep and widen their lead in the National League East by slugging Montreal 7-3 on Stargell's fifth career grand slam.

The Pirtes, who won the first game 7-1 before Stargell's 24th homer of the year climaxed a seven-run seventh inning rally in the nightcap, now lead the second-place Mets by 3½ lengths.

Cicinnati floored Atlanta 5-4 and 2-0, overcoming a grand slam by rookie Earl Williams in the opener, and San Francisco swept San Diego 6-2 and 2-0 in other NL doubleheaders. St. Louis edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4 and Houston outscored Los Angeles 9-7 in single games.

The bases-loaded homers by Johnson, Stargell and Williams equalled the league record of three grand slams in one day.

In the American League, Baltimore laced the New York Yankees 10-4; Boston nipped Washington 4-3; the Chicago White Sox stomped Minnesota 18-8; Oakland divided a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning 11-4 and then bowing 7-4, and California split with Kansas City, taking the nightcap 84 after a 5-1 loss.

Cleveland shaded Detroit 7-7 in the 11-inning opener of another AL twin bill and led 7-6 in the eighth inning of the second game when a power failure forced suspension of play.

The Mets, who struck for three ninth inning runs to win the opener, had visions of trimming Pittsburgh's division lead to 1½ games as they forged a 5-1 lead in the nightcap.

But Johnson's two-run double helped the Phils battle back to tie it, and he broke the 5-5 deadlock with a shot over the left field fence off Ron Taylor in the 11th after Terry Harmon's single, Larry Bowa's double and an intentional walk filled the bases against Jim McAndrew.

Johnson has hit nine homers this season—four of them against Met pitching.

Stargell hit a bases-empty homer and Richie Hebner drove in four runs with a homer and double as the Pirates won their opener behind Steve Blass, 8-3, who scattered nine Montreal hits.

But the Expos' Jim Britton, seeking his first victory since 1969, nursed a 1-0 lead into the seventh inning of the nightcap.

Then, pinch singles by Gene Clines and Bill Mazeroski plus a walk to Dave Cash filled the bases, bringing Mike Marshall out of the Montreal bullpen.

Vic Davalillo singled for one run, leaving the bases jammed, and Stargell hit Marshall's next pitch over the right field fence for four RBI and a season total of 65—tops in the majors.

The Pirates completed their seven-run burst of the year when Al Oliver singled and rookie Mile May homered.

Williams gave Atlanta a 4-2 sixth inning lead in the opener at Cincinnati with his first major league slam. But the Reds tied it in the eighth on doubles by Tommy Helms and Bernie Carbo, then won it on Johnny Bench's run-producing single in the ninth.

Don Gullett, 8-2, and reliever Clay Carroll teamed up to blank the Braves on five hits in the second game.

George Foster stole home in the second inning and homered in the fourth as the Reds won for the seventh time in their last nine starts.

However, they still are 13½ games behind the West Division-leading Giants, who finished off a five-game blitz of San Diego behind a five-run eighth inning rally in the opener and rookie Steve Stone's three-hit, 11-strikeout pitching in the nightcap.

Willie McCovey's three-run pinch homer capped the winning first game rally.

Joe Torre smacked four hits, including a homer, to lead the Cardinals past the Cubs despite a ninth inning homer by Joe Pepitone that stretched his hitting streak to 19 games.

The Astros spotted Los Angeles four runs in the first, then roared back as Doug Rader stroked a double and three singles to pace a 17-hit attack.

Nicklaus, Trevino Playoff

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus plays his Frankenstein monster, Lee Trevino, in an 18 hole playoff today for the 71st annual U.S. Open Golf championship.

Nicklaus and Trevino wound up in a tie Sunday after 72 holes, when Trevino missed a six foot putt and took a bogey on the 18th hole, while Nicklaus two putted for a par on the same green. They each scored a par 280 for the 72-hole test over Merion Golf Club's short but demanding course.

Nicklaus posted rounds of 6972-68-71 and Trevino 70-72-69-68 to set up the 25th playoff in U.S. Open history.

Third round leader Jim Simons, the 21-year-old amateur from Butler, Pa., who led after three rounds, buckled under the pressure, double bogeying the final hole and winding up with a six over par 76, tied for sixth place.

The Frankenstein monster creation by Nicklaus was attested to by Trevino after he shot a one under par 69 Sunday to come from four strokes off the 54-hole pace to a tie and playoff. They will playoff starting at 1:45 p.m. EDT today.

Trevino told of how Nicklaus gave him words of encouragement last February. "And I've played unbelievable since," said the 31-year-old resident of El Paso, Tex.

It was after an exhibition in West Palm Beach, Fla., that Nicklaus and Trevino had a conversation in the locker room. Trevino recalled that he told Nicklaus that he was skipping the Masters because he didn't feel his game was geared to the course at Augusta.

"He (Nicklaus) said 'Let me tell you something.' He said 'you can play anyplace you want to.' He said 'I hope you never find out how good you can play because it will give the rest of us a little better chance to win.'"

Trevino's record since that locker room conversation is two victories, twice he missed winning by one shot, lost one playoff, finished second, fourth, 10th, 12 and 37th and earned $110,000.

Trevino tied for the lead on the 12th hole of Sunday's final round over the 6,544-yard Merion Course, treacherous layout of 124 bunkers, rough as thick as hay and greens that had Nicklaus talking to himself at times.

On the 12th, Trevino said he made a shot he almost didn't believe. He hit a nine iron that almost ran over the green, but the backspin and downward slope of the green left the ball inches from the hole. He sank the putt for a birdie three tying him with Nicklaus and Simons, who were playing together.

Trevino took the lead at the 14th where he put his drive in the fairway and his second shot about 12 inches to the left of the pin and made the putt to go one under for the tournament, a stroke ahead of Nicklaus.

The 5-foot-7 Trevino only had to make par at 18, and he would have forced Nicklaus to birdie at least one of the last two holes to tie. His second shot, however, went to the rough near the right rear of the green. He chipped to within six feet and missed for a bogey.

Nicklaus, who is seeking his 12th major golf championship, only one behind the record 13 earned by bantam Ben Hogan, had trouble all day with one 006is best clubs, the three wood. He couldn't keep the ball in the fairway.

Nicklaus knew that he could win it all with a birdie at 18, and he gave it all he had. His booming drive was the best he hit all day, and he hit a four iron to the green 12 to 15 feet from the pin. The crowd of better than 16,000 hushed as he studied the putt.

"Actually it was an easy putt," Nicklaus related. "It was straight and I must have pulled it a few iinches off."

Dissatisfaction With NCAA Meet

SEATTLE (AP) — The top United States track and field athletes take their running and jumping show to Eugene, Ore., for the AAU championships this weekend, some hoping for a little more happiness than they found here.

A few expressed dissatisfaction in last weekend's NCAA track and field championships held at the University of Washington stadium.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon's long-distance machine seemed the unhappiest despite successfully defending his three-mile title in a meet record 13 minutes 20.1 seconds. He said he disliked the track, which he said was too hot and left his feet blistered.

"I got out of this nothing more than just a good hard workout," the 20-year-old sophomore said.

Ralph Mann managed to control his elation also after he won the intermediate hurdles in 49.6.

Miler Marty Liquori and shot put champ Karl Salb of Kansas won their events for a third straight year.

"Three days running on this hard concrete track will take something out of you," Mann said. "And that wind down the stretch was something else again. I'm looking forward to the AAU meet in Eugene."

The college athletes will be joined by open athletes in that one.

One of the glamor meetings is a return match between Liquori and world record holder Jim Ryun. The big question is the pollen count. Ryun suffers from hay fever and says he may not enter if the pollen count is high.

If Prefontaine was unhappy at one end, UCLA Coach Jim Bush balanced the scales after his Bruins won the team title, scoring 52 points to 41 for Southern Cal and 38 for Oregon despite an unsteady performance from vaunted sprinter Willie Deckard. Deckard, favored in the 100, held Friday finished last. He then failed to qualify Saturday for his other strong suit, the 220, and could only say, "I was tired. I was just tired."

Sid Sink of Bowling Green, Ohio, successfully defended his 3,000-meter steeplechase title. He won it in a collegiate record 8:30.9.

Villanova's Liquori turned in a meet record 3:57.6 victory in the mile.

National League

The Lions defeated A & B Oil Friday night, 5-2, inthe last game of National League baseball play at Puckett field. Lions remain in first place in the league, tied with Lewis Furniture with identical 5-1 records.

All five of the Lion runs came across home plate in the second inning of play. Three singles, three walks, and one error marked the big inning for the winners. Griffen, Longstreet, and Stricker belted the safeties in the inning.

Stricker went three for three at the plate for Lions, scoring one run. Teammate Medelberg belted the game's only extra base shot, a leadoff double in the third inning.

Griffin worked the mound for Lions, pitching the two-hit victory.

Both Oiler hits came in the second inning as White and Gilbow belted back to back lead off shots. White scored in the inning for the first of two A & B runs. Price walked in the fifth inning. Two errors sent him home for the final A & B Oiler score.

Griffin collected the win for the Lions. Davidson worked all six inning for the Oilers to receive the loss.

Sr. Babe Ruth

Elks remained unbeaten in Senior Babe Ruth play over the weekend as they blanked Harts Standard in Saturday's opening baseball game, 8 to one. Harts Standard has lost two games this season, both to the front running Elks.

The second contest of the night at V.F.W. Stadium was forfeited by Lindseys M & H and Leible Implement. Both teams collected losses for failing to put nine men on the field.

Bob Blankenship worked the mound for Elks, firing a one hitter. Four Harts Standard runners reached base on two walks, an error, and a single by Phil Puckett. Harts' biggest and only scoring threat came in the sixth when Rod Scudder reached third base after a walk. Blankenship worked out of the inning with three strikeouts.

The Elks battered out eight hits with their biggest barrage coming in the fourth. Two walks, three singles, and a double by Mike Mitchell pushed five Elks runners across the plate in the inning.

Mitchell and Kenny Lawrence anchored the winner.s eight - hit attack with two hits apiece. Blankenship, Reynolds, Jones and Vines each added the remaining safeties.

On the mound for Harts Standard was Gary Vaught and Richard "Snake" Howard, who worked the last inning of play. Vaught opened on the mound for Harts and was credited with the loss.

American League

Caproco and Ziegenhorn Insurance picked up victories in American League baseball play Saturday night at Farris Field.

Caproco set back Ryan Construction, 15-9, in the first game of the night. Ziegenhorn won over Sealtest in a 13-11 nightcap battle.

Eight runs in the second boosted Caproco toward the winning mark. Ryan held a slim 5-1 edge after the first inning before the big Caproco inning put it ahead to stay.

Four hits, including a bases loaded triple by Littleton, five errors, and one walk marked play in the second inning.

Caproco put the lid on the victory with six additional runs in the fourth. A single, a double, by Littleton, and three walks pushed the Caproco runners home to score.

Hurley worked the mound for the winners, striking out 10 and giving up two hits. Gardner handled the mound chores for Ryan Construction and was tagged with the loss.

Doubles by Gator and Springs were the Construction men's only hits in the game.

Bridger and Standridge both went three for four in the second game to anchor Ziegenhorn's 13-11 win over Sealtest. Ziegenhorn belted 10 hits scoring nine runs in the final two innings of play to defeat Sealtest.

Sealtest scored two runs in each of the first four innings of play, but fell victim of the late Ziegenhorn spree that put nine marks on the Insurance men's scorecard. Two singles, three doubles, and a triple were collected by the Ziegenhorn lineup in the final two innings. Sellers blasted the triple; Bridger, Gator, and Standridge the doubles in the final spree.

Hays belted one of the six Sealtest hits for a double, while teammates Green and Ledbetter added two hits apiece for Sealtest.

Sellers and Bridger teamed on the mound for Ziegenhorn. Sellers collected the win from the mound, relieving Bridger in the third inning. Hart was tagged with the loss.

John McCulloch Puts Parma In Victory Column

ESSEX—John McCulloch, former Three Rivers junior college pitching star, hurled Parma to its first win in the Southeast Missouri Men's independent baseball league Sunday. He scattered five hits and won 3-2 over Bloomfield.

He suffered the loss in a rain shortened second game, 6-1. The rain forced cancellation in the top of the sixth with runners on first and third with one out.

Parma jumped out to a 1-0 lead in both games, but Bloomfield rallied in both to gain the lead.

A seventh inning rally produced Parma's opening game win. Jimmy Cravens opened the seventh with a 400-foot triple to left center and Ron Jaynes followed with a single to tie the score. He scored the lead run after advancing to third on a throwing error and going home on a wild pitch.

Parma wants additional games. Anyone interested in playing can write James Borders at Parma.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt announced today he will drive in both the Pocono 500 championship car race and the Firecracker 400 stock car event over the July 4 weekend.

The handsome Houston, Tex., driver said he planned to wheel a United States Auto Club entry at Pocono, Pa., on Saturday, July 3, and fly to Daytona Beach for the Firecracker 400 stock car race Sunday, July 4.

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Freitas of Swansea, Mass., will replace Gomeo Brennan in a 10-round bout with Paul Cardoza at New Bedford Monday night for the New England light heavyweight crown left vacant by the retirement of Eddie Spence of Pittsfield.

Promoter Sam Silverman announced the change Thursday night. He said Brennan was forced to withdraw because of tonsilitis.

Favorite Turkey Tales

JEFFERSON CITY--Every one of Missouri's conservation agents has a pet fund of turkey season stories, gathered from the field during the season.

The 1971 season was history's best--definitely from hunter success and just possible from the story fund as well. Doyle Beck, district supervisor assigned to Washington County, found a hunter using a 1970 tag.

The hunter claimed it was all a mistake. He just put the wrong tag on the bird. Only it was his brother's tag.

Then, Jack Stowe, Mercer County agent, talked to a hunter who had heard a Sullivan County gobbler serenading the morning and had painstakingly crawled about a half-mile...only to find the bird was a white one in a farmer's pen.

Vernon Renne, agent in Carroll County, found a hunter using a trail bike to get to his hunting area. Behind the bike, he pulled a small trailer within which squatted an artificial hen turkey, a decoy.

"When he got ready to hunt", Renne reports. "He placed his decoy where he wanted it and then covered his bike and small trailer with a camouflage net."

Quit laughing--he killed a gobler opening morning.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, the popular Puerto Rican who tied for third here a year ago, Thursday became the latest to enter the 1971 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf tournament.

Rodriguez won five PGA crowns since joining the tour 11 years ago.

HITTING — Don Kessinger, who doubled earlier and scored the tying run, opened the 10th inning with his sixth hit and scored the winning run to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

PITCHING — Dick Drago, Royals, fired a six-hitter and became the first Kansas City pitcher to ever toss consecutive shutouts in a 5-0 victory over the California Angels.

LOS ANGELES — Rodolfo Loboto, 128, Mexico, outpointed Vil Tumulak, 128, Philippines, 10.

Problems Compound

JEFFERSON CITY--Birth announcement: In a Missouri first, a brood of ducklings has been born to an adventuresome hen in a duck basket.

The Department of Conservation has: (1) about 100 mallards on its Headquarters grounds and (2) a number of duck nesting baskets made of willow from England.

The idea is that ducks nest in the baskets, which are in the water and elevated, and this discourages predators such as foxes and raccoons.

This latest brood of ducklings is the fourth blessed event among the Department ducks, but the first one in a basket. The other mother ducks merely gouged out a nest on the ground and let it go at that.

Only problem is that the ducklings of the previous broods have been picked off one by one by...Department bullfrogs. In both Holland and England, duck baskets are a traditional and successful way to raise many, many wild ducks.

Maybe they don't have bullfrogs in Holland and England....

West Stars Win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Barnhill, a veteran of both the National Basketball League and the American Basketball League, flashed a grin and said, "That's the way this game should be played. Nice and loose."

Barnhill, still playing for the ABA Denver Rockets, acted as coach of the West squad in Sunday's Martin Luther King Benefit game here, which attracted six NBA players and 17 ABA players.

The West made Barnhill a winning coach by downing the East squad 111-100 in the hot Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum, but the score mattered much less than the action.

A paid crowd of 6,078 was announced. The actual number of spectators appeared much less than that figure. However, the game was nationally-televised and the people there were animated.

The game was dominated by the West, but there were a number of features to keep the folks interested.

First, the East, coached by former pro and college coach John McClendon, started five hometown Indiana Pacers, much to the delight of the crowd.

Then NBA greats Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Cazzie Russell of San Francisco and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix combined with ABA starts Jimmy Jones of Memphis, Larry Jones and Mack Calvin of the Floridians and Willie Wise and Zelmo Beaty of the Utah Stars to give the fans plenty of fireworks for the West.

Finally, young John Brisker of the ABA's Pittsburgh team, the game's high-scorer with 21 points, put a topper on the show with some dazzling play for the East.

Other focal points included Calvin-led fast breaks, some sleight-of-hand passing by Monroe, Russell and Indiana's Roger Brown, and soaring dunk shots by Hawkins.

"The Hawk" was voted Most Valuable Player by the press, the second time he's won that honor in the four-year history of the game.

Six players scored in double figures for the West, led by Jimmie Jones with 14 points. Wise, Larry Jones and Monroe scored 13 each. Brown followed Brisker in the East scoring with 14 points.

Breakfast Cereals Are Back Despite Low Calorie Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly a year after an obscure civil engineer turned hunger crusader attacked cereals as boxes of empty calories, the old favorites are back on top of the breakfast table.

What at first blush appeared to be a buyer revolt now looks like nothing more than a fleeting spasm.

In the immediate wake of the charges leveled against dry cereals by Robert Choate in testimony before a Senate committee, many a consumer switched to highly fortified brands, and these products still claim scattered pockets of loyalty.

But the Big Three manufacturers—Kellogg, Post and General Mills—say their customers settled back into old buying habits within two months.

The nation's largest food chain, A&P, said a spot check of their stores confirmed the general pattern. Two exceptions were Chicago's Jewel Food Stores and Washington's Giant Food, regional chains which support consumer information programs. They said the heavily fortified cereals seized an additional 12 to 20 per cent of the market at their stores, and are holding onto the new business.

Since Choate testified that dry cereals "have calories and little else," makers of the popular brands have introduced more nutritious products, but they have said they were planning them all along, anyway.

The government is working on two studies, one of competition within the industry; the other of possible limits on fortification of cereals. Neither has been completed.

Choate has gone into food crusading full time from his Washington office, but he has switched the emphasis of his attacks on the food industry to criticism of its advertising, particularly its television advertising.

"The press picked up the nutritional aspect and sort of skipped over the advertising," he said in an interview. "So I've been concentrating on the advertising."

Choate contended his testimony hit the industry hard and enhanced the in-house positions of nutritionists, who he claims had been subservient to the advertising men.

The industry-supported Cereal Institute, as well as the cereal manufacturers themselves, cite nutrition education efforts which include advertisements, pamphlets, teacher resource kits and classroom games in which the winner is the team with the best breakfast over a few weeks' time. The most extensive of the industry-wide efforts, package panels with nutritional information, got started about the same time Choate testified.

Kellogg's has increased fortification of its presweetened cereals to account for a third of the minimum daily adult requirement for eight crucial vitamins. General Mills has come out with some super-fortified "monster cereals" called "Frankenberry" and "Count Chocula," and Post is introducing "Pebbles."

The new cereals were being planned before Choate's blast and have nothing to do with him, said a Kellogg spokesman. "People are just generally interested in nutrition who have not been before."

The Federal Trade Commission acknowledged it has received responses from all six companies involved in its investigation of whether tha breakfast cereal industry is controlled by so few firms that effective competition is impossible. Beyond that, FTC officials refused to comment.

Six months ago, aiFood and Drug Administration hearing examiner submitted recommendations on what the FDA should do with a proposal which would impose limits on fortification of cereals. There are no limitations now, and a Kellogg's spokesman said at least two of his firm's cereals couldn't be marketed under the proposed regulations, which have been kicking around FDA for years.

FDA officials won't disclose the hearing examiner's recommendation.

Violence Erupts In Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Springfield fire officials reported early this morning an apparent fire bomb was thrown through a window of a bedspread shop seven blocks from Park Central Square.

Damage to the store was reported to be light.

The incident marred what officials said had been an otherwise peaceful night, in contrast with previous nights.

Both public officials and members of the black community are said to be awaiting an announcement today by Greene County Prosecutor Dee Wampler. He is to announce his findings from an invsstigation into the death of a black man, Michael Dunlap, 21, who was shot June 9 by a white Springfield police officer, John D. Barnes.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Dunlap was shot in a struggle for the officer's revolver.

There have been nightly reports of disturbances and some firebombings since the jury returned its verdict. Black leaders have called for an end to the violence and urged demonstrators to await Wampler's decision.

"Everything is focusing toward me now ... it's a very inflammatory situation," Wampler said.

Springfield's city council met in special session Saturday night and granted Mayor Carl Stillwell the power to impose a curfew in Park Central, Springfield's downtown square.

Fire officials say two fires at residences Saturday night were the result of a domestic quarrel not the racial unrest.

Campaign Most Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — it cost Richard M. Nixon a record $35 million to become president in 1968, a new study says.

Compiled by the nonpartisan Citizens' research Foundation, the report says a record $100 million was spent by all the presidential candidates, including early losers in the primaries.

The reason for the huge amount were the pitched fights in both major parties. Nearly as much money was spent altogether by candidates in the pre-convention free -for -all as in the general election.

Nixon spent $10 million or more on the primary trail, the study says, then added $24.9 million in the November race. The latter figure along equalled the total for both candidates' spending in the 1964 presidential race.

Nixon's richest individual campaign support came from W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance executive, who gave $154,000 in the fall; Max Fisher, Detroit industrialist, $103,000; and Henry Salvatori, Los Angeles oil explorer, $83,000.

Eban Wants Soviets To Take First Step

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli government expects the Soviet Union to initiate steps to resume contacts broken off at the time of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Sunday.

"Such an initiate is desirable and Israel is ready for it," Eban told a meeting of American Jews in Jerusalem. He said Moscow realizes it cannot ignore Israel's importance in the Middle East and needs some understanding with Israel.

Romania is the only member of the Soviet bloc that did not break diplomatic relations with Israel because of the 1967 war.

Meanwhile Premier Saeb Salam of Lebanon was beginning a three-day official visit to Jordan today, and there was speculation he would try to mediate between King Hussein's government and the Palestinian guerrillas who continue to challenge the Jordanian army.

Salam met with guerrillas leader Yasir Arafat Sunday night for a review of the situation.

Other talks on the Middle East situation opened Sunday in Cairo between President Anwar Sadar and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Informed sources said Faisal brief Sadat on his talks with President Nixon during his recent visit to Washington, while Sadat told his guest about his talks last month in Cairo with Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The sources said the two leaders would try to adopt a unified stand. In the past, the Egyptians have been far more militant than the conservative Saudi monarchy.

Also in Cairo, the Egyptian state prosecutor ordered the confiscation of all properties and bank assets of former Vice President Aly Sabry, former armed forces commander Gen. Mohamed Fawzi and five other former ministers and officials. The seven are held under house arrest on charges of plotting to overthrow Sadat last month.

In the Gaza Strip, police discovered the body of another murdered Arab woman, and 26 of the Strip's 30 bus drivers refused to work because of terrorists's threats of violence to their families. There have been 50 murders in the Strip this year. Police believe most of them were killed for collaborating with the Israelis or working for them.

Hero Praises Drugs In Combat

DETROIT (AP) — A Medal of Honor winner says he was "stoned" on marijuana the night he fought off two waves of Viet Cong soldiers and won America's highest military honor.

"It was the only time I ever went into combat stoned," Peter Lemon, 21, said in Tawas City during an interview with Detroit Free Press reporter Howard Kohn.

"You get really alert when you're stoned because you have to be.

"We were all partying the night before. We weren't expecting any action because we were in a support group," the soft-spoken Lemon recalled.

"All the buys were heads," Lemon said, using a slang term for marijuana smokers. "We'd sit around smoking grass and getting stoned and talking about when we'd get to go home."

It was April 1, 1970, when Lemon, an Army Spec. 4, used his rifle, machine gun and hand grenades to smash a large attack on his position.

He fought the enemy hand-tohand and dragged a wounded comrade to the rear before collapsing from exhaustion and three wounds. At a medical center, he refused treatment until more seriously injured men had been cared for.

Lemon said he almost decided not to accept the Medal of Honor from President Nixon at White House ceremonies last week.

"That was one of my first thoughts," he said. "But it was just a little thought. I guess you can't split the medal up among 12 guys, but that's who it really belongs to.

"I'll tell you this, too. I'd trade it in a minute if it could bring back my three buddies" who were killed in the battle, at Tay Ninh near the Cambodian border.

Lemon let his hair grow long and bushy after his discharge Dec. 4, but he cut it and his long sideburns for the White House presentation.

"I got about three inches cut off. But the first thing when I got to Washington some military aides started to hassle me to get it cut some more."

He said he is antiwar, though not necessarily antimilitary.

His 12 months of fighting in Vietnam were filled with incidents of callousness, desperation, rebellion, unfriendliness, and escape through drugs, he said.

He said he saw a Korean officer point-blank shoot to death three enemy soldiers who wanted to surrender, and said a hated lieutenant was blown up while sitting in an outdoor toilet by a grenade tossed by a GI.

He also said, "I just got real tired of the South Vietnamese coming up and saying, 'What are you Americans doing here?'"

"The war is ridiculous. How would we like it if we went to war with Canada and the Russians or the Chinese came over here and wanted to help us?" Lemon asked.

"Fanfare" Receives Excellent Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — The educational television stations' "Fanfare" hour Sunday night was an American version of a French one-man show, but more than anything else a 60minute demonstration of novel effects that can be used to entertain the eye as well as the ear.

The star was the French singer and composer Gilbert Becaud who sang—mostly his own numbers—for the hour. The show was almost entirely in French, although Becaud's English seemed very good when he used it.

Just about every camara trick in the book was used around him, all sorts of double and triple exposures. At one point he was singing in front of a moving gallery of old French posters. One whole number was built around oranges, another around roses and still another around flashlights and all created bizarre effects.

From beginning to end, everything but the music was unusual. In fact, the backgrounds were so ingenious and novel that they became the foreground, throwing the show out of shape.

Still, the hour should be an inspiration for those who produce the home-grown variety hours which, particularly this last season, have slipped into a dull rut.

Day-time Sunday programming—on and off the networks— seems to involve bunches. There are all the kiddy shows early in the day, followed by a scattering of religious programs. Shortly after noon there come, in rapid succession, three news interview programs, one per network. After noon, when not dedicated to sports, are hours when one may get his fill of really old and usually very bad movies.

It sometimes seems a waste that three of the best news interview shows arrive at what for many people is a busy part of the day—12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

This Sunday, CBS' "Face the Nation" kicked off the period with a leisurely and interesting interview with presidential aspirant Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. It was followed by NBC's "Meet the Press" with a father's day special starring Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and his son, Rep. James W. Symington, D-Mo. Finally there was ABC's "Issues and Answers" with a pre-taped interview with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

The simple format of "Face the Nation" and "Meet the Press"—well-prepared, aggressive questioners who keep the controls on the questioners' side—is very satisfactory from the viewers' standpoint.

"Issues and Answers" depends more on the fluency of the guest than on the skills of the interviewers.

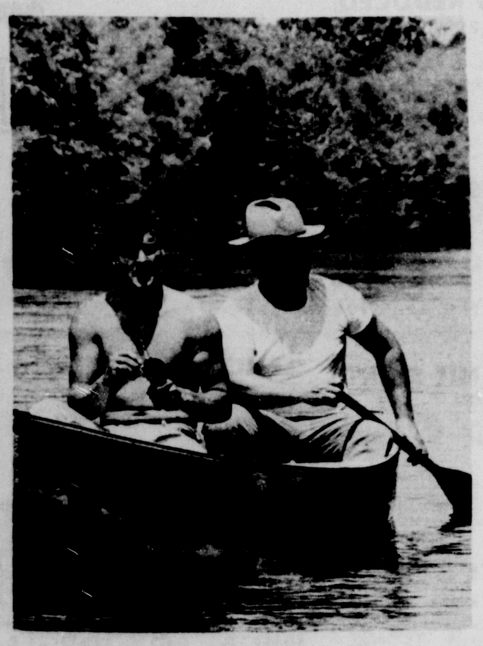

Until the last few holes in the finals of the U.S. Open Sunday, ABC seemed to be broadcasting the most dramatic golf tournament of the year. Jim Simons, a 21-year-old amateur was out in front of the pack of the nation's best professional golfers.

He fell behind at the end, and Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, who were tied, were to play off a sudden death match today.

St. Louis Firm Bids Low on Project

CHARLESTON — Brunson Construction Co. of St. Louis was the apparent low bidder on a 110 -unit housing project for Charleston when bids were opened Thursday at the Housing Authority office.

Brunson's bid was $1,589,200.

Authority sources said the bid is about $56,000 higher than the amount budgeted for construction, but added that little trouble is expected in securing approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development on the final contract.

Other bidders on the job were McDaniel Brothers Construction Co., Jonesboro, Ark., $1,660,140; Ralph E. boyer Contractor, Sikeston, $1,668,000; and Hardaway Construction Co., Nashville, Tenn., $1,847,000.

A spokesman for the construction firm indicated Thursday that he would be ready to begin building just as soon as the contract is signed. Richard Logan, executive director of the Authority, said this could possibly be within the next two weeks, but added that this depends upon the speed of HUD's final approval of the contract.

Funding of the project of $1,892,493 was announced Mar. 3, in Washington by George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, through Missouri's senators and Congressman Bill Burlison.

The grant provides for construction of 70 units for low-income families, and 40 units of housing for the elderly.

Logan said the 40 units of housing for the elderly will be built on a 3-acre tract located behind the Armory, which is presently under option by the Housing Authority. The 70 units of general occupancy housing will be built on a tract owned by Charles Telker, and located behind Atteberry Dairy in the Kimes Addition. The Authority also has an option on this property.

There will be four apartments to the unit in the elderly housing project, and the general - occupancy housing will consist of duplexes, except for six four-bedroom units, which will be single - family structures.

Included in the plans are 16 efficiency apartments, all in the elderly project; 40 one-bedroom, 30 two - bedroom, 18 three - bedroom, and 6 four - bedroom units.

Logan said the Authority will not accept applications for the new housing until construction is 70 per cent completed.

Completion of the project should come in the fall of 1972, Logan said.

Members of the Housing Authority, on hand for the bid opening last Thursday included Carson, vice chairman W. D. Purnell, Milton Clack, Herbert Marshall and Rowe Powell.

First Missouri Corn Blight Confirmed

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)–Missouri's first confirmed southern corn leaf blight this year has been located northwest of St. Louis, a University of Missouri-Columbia plant pathologist said Thursday.

But Binar Palm, chairman of the university's corn leaf blight committee, said that no widespread southern corn leaf blight is indicated at this time.

Palm said the confirmed blight on volunteer corn was located in Lincoln County. Palm made the confirmation following a trip to the field where the blight was found.

Bill Would Push Social Security Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wellpaid 35-year-old worker today could look forward to Social Security retirement pay up to $1,500 a month in his old age under provisions of pending legislation, Rep. Charles A. Vanik says.

The Ohio Democrat projected the effects of the bill in a House speech Thursday.

He emphasized the provisions for automatic increases in benefits and taxes, as the cost of living and average wage go up.

Assuming the living cost index rises 2.3 per cent a year and wages 4.5 per cent, he said, the worker drawing the maximum covered by Social Security could retire at 65 with a basic monthly benefit of $810.60.

If his wife is also 65, the total for the couple would be $1,215.90. By the time they reached 75, the figure would be $1,530, Vanik said.

Two Escape From Farm

FORDLAND— Gordon Lee Cooper, 50, of Gideon, and Jefferson Junior Loflin, 28, of Anniston, escaped Sunday night from the honor camp detention farm, the highway patrol said.

Details of the escape were not available.

Cooper was serving a life sentence for armed robbery and Loflin was serving a five-year sentence for tampering with an automobile.

The pair have not been apprehended.

LINCOLN MEMENTO

ROBINSON, Ill. (AP) — Lincoln Trail College, a new institution, has received a piece of history for its collection of objects commemorating the era of Abraham Lincoln.

A 75-year-old set of Conestoga wagon hoops was donated by the Morris Davis family. They were brought to the Davis home in Annapolis in 1896 by the late John Newlin, Mrs. Davis' great-uncle.

ATTENDING A CHEERLEADING CLINIC at Jonesboro were A-team cheerleaders from Risco, from bottom to top, Darlene Midgett, Donna Mayes, Teresa McGee, Jane Smelser, Jo Carlisle and Phyllis Hon, captain.

Booker New Steele Mayor

STEELE, Mo., — Jerry V. Jones, a drug store owner, said Wednesday he will not contest the results of Tuesday's municipal election that saw him lose a race for mayor by eight votes.

"I'm satisfied with the results of the election," Jones said.

Steele's new mayor is Lloyd Booker, a grocery store owner. he replaces former Mayor Ed Aumon, who resigned.

Booker polled 302 votes to Jones' 294.

Steele residents also elected a new chief of police to replace Bill Stanfield, who died in May after a heart attack.

The new chief of police is Billy Joe Stanfield, son of the former chief.

Stanfield received 286 votes to 239 for Tommy German, a former deputy sheriff.

The terms of Stanfield and Booker will expire in April.

LONDON (AP) — Gas output soared by 16 per cent to a record level in Britain in 1970 with natural gas accounting for 70 per cent of all supplies.

Use of coal in gas manufacture fell from six million tons in 1969 to under three million tons.

RISCO HIGH SCHOOL CHEERLEADERS ATTEND CLINIC

The Risco High School A and B cheerleading squads attended the firstsession of the 14th annual Cheerleading Clinic at the Arkansas State University in Jonesboro Sunday, June 6 — Firday, June 11. The girls were taught new cheers, tumbling and pom - pom routines by 12 instructors who were employed by the National Cheerleaders Association in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Gladys Hudgins, assistant professor of physical education and ASU cheerleader sponsor, was director of the clinic.

At the close of each of the five daily sessions each squad was evaluated by the instructors as they demonstrated two cheers, one of which had to be a new one learned at the clinic. During these mass assemblies in the fieldhouse some lucky squads who came up to standard achievement were presented ribbons. The Risco A squadreceived one ribbon for Honorable Mention and four ribbons for outstanding performances. This group also was the recipeint of the coveted N.C.A. Spirit Stick for their outstanding displav of spirit and enthusiasm during one session.

The B squad received two ribbons for honorable mention and three outstanding performance awards. They, also, received the N.C.A. Spirit Stick during one session.

The girls were accompanied by their sponsor, mrs. Pauline Allen, who is treating the group to an ice - cream social soon in appreciation of their excellent behavior and accomplishments at the clinic.

The Bunko Club met Saturday evening at the thome of Mrs. Clifford Boner. During the evening of games refreshments were served to Mrs. Gail LunBeck, mrs. Charles Kirksey, Mrs. Donnie Lancaster, Mrs. Freida Lawson, Mrs. Ralph Blough, Mrs. James Finch and her guest, Wanda.

The Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball home games this year will be as follows: June 15, Lilbourn; June 22, Marston; June 25, Parma; July 6, New Madrid; and July 20, Lilbourn.

Other game dates are not available, except for the tournament to be held July 26-30. The location is indefinite.

Sgt. Mitchell Walker of Barksdale A.F.B., Shreveport, La., spent the weekend of his leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walker. Sgt. Walker leaves June 20 for Hawaii, where he will be on a 30-day special assignment.

Mrs. Jim Byington, counselor for Tallapoosa Baptist Acteens Group, accompanied the following girls to Friendship Camp for a session Monday through Thursday: Pam Cunningham, Jane Landers, Vicki Tolbert and Vicki Albright. mrs. Byington's two sons also accompanied their group.

A group of Acteens from the Risco First Baptist Church also attended this weeks camp session.

Mrs. Rayvon Knapp was hostess Monday evening to the Tallapoosa Baptist Womens group at her home.

The missionary study program was on Japan and the group held regular business session, during which plans were made to hold their annual prayer retreat Thursday, Julv 22 at the Fortner Pond.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. W. M. Fortner, Mrs. Hugh Landers, Mrs. Jim Byington, Mrs. Kenny Carlisle, Mrs. Francis Clark and Mrs. Erma Cole.

A group of 4-Hers met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Landers to discuss entries of exhibits at the annual 4-H Fair and to complete work on the 4-H Scrapbooks.

Those present were Vanessa Gibbs, Sandra Wilson, Chris Landers, Steve, Ted and Brent Landers.

Kippy and David Crouthers and Harry Wayne Gremore were among several members o the Parma Boyscout Troop who participated in the annual Boyscout Campout at Lake Wappapello Sunday through Saturday. The Scouts held Parents Night Thursday evening, when several parents visited the campsite.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bird attended the wedding Saturday of Miss Lynn Radcliffe to Larry Howarat the First Methodist Church in Osceola, Ark.

Mrs. Raymond May was hostess Thursday afternoon to members of the Risco Rural Independent Club for the June meeting.

President, Mrs. Tom Pearson, opened the meeting by leading the group in The Lord's Prayer. Roll Call was How I Boost My Husband's Morale. After a business session which included planning the work schedule at the Fourth of July Picnic, a demonstration of the various steps of Decoupage was given by Mrs. Don Landers and instruction sheets were given to those present.

The hostess served refreshments during the social period to those mentioned and to Mrs. Tom Kizer, mrs. R. E. Dockrey, Mrs. P.C. Crouthers, Mrs. Gentry May, Mrs. Verly McCord, Mrs. Mae Kizer, a guest, and to Christi and Susan Pearson.

Mrs. Crouthers is hostess for the July 8 afternoon meeting.

Two Selected For Freedom Forum Parley

LILBOURN - Teresa Dale Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Thompson and Laura Kathryn Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Mitchell, have been selected by the New Madrid County Farm Bureau to attend Missouri Freedom Forum June 27—July 1 in Mexico, Mo.

Miss Thompson and Miss Mitchell were nominated by their school principal. Their selection was based on character, scholarship, and leadership abilities.

Fontaine Loses Home But Friends Give It Back

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—Comedian Frankie Fontaine lost his home in an Internal Revenue Service auction but got it back moments later from a group of friends who had submitted the high bid for it.

"It's great to have buddies like these guys," Fontaine said. "There's nothing like having friends like this."

The house was auctioned Friday by the IRS to pay off some of the $450,000 it says Fontaine owes in back taxes and penalties.

A group called "Friends of Frankie Fontaine Committee" raised nearly $60,000 at a benefit for the comedian in May. Frank Shilesky of Arlington, committee chairman, said the bid on the house "used up all the monies derived from the benefit."

The amount of the bid was not announced. The auction was held at the IRS office in Lowell.

EITHER FEATHER-LIGHT pipe or muscles of iron would appear to be the case here. Actually, it's a trick done not with mirrors but a crane, out of sight, which suspends a three-ton section of steel diversion pipe used in a U.S. Corps of Engineers flood control project on the Rouge River at Detroit. In all, more than a half-mile of Armco Hel-Cor eight-foot pipe is used and then reused as work progresses.

Bangla Desh

—the dream of an independent Bengal nation—is still alive in East Pakistan despite military suppression of the recent uprising against domination by West Pakistan. Young Bengalis hug the mud, right, training for guerrilla warfare at an unidentified point inside East Pakistan where the West Pakistan army, equipped with modern weapons from major powers, has an overwhelming military advantage. Below, refugees from the struggle in East Pakistan crowd a camp in India 75 miles from Calcutta. An estimated three million Bengalis have fled to India, raising serious food and health problems.

Sheriff Questions Debt Auditor Found

KENNETT — The state auditor's office may say he owes Dunklin County more than $25,000, Sheriff Raymond Scott said Friday, "but they won't be able to collect it."

"I am prepared to pay the county any amount that is legally owing," the sheriff said. "But six years ago they said I owed $18,000 and they were never able to collect it."

The audit, released Thursday by State Auditor Christopher Bond, says the sheriff owes Dunklin County $24,554 for the years 1964 to 1969. The report said there also is a $448 shortage in Mr. Scott's trust fund.

"I've been sheriff 22 years and I've never heard of a trust fund," Mr. Scott said. "And none of the other sheriffs I've talked to have heard of it."

The audit claims that $9,910 that Mr. Scott received in mileage fees for transporting prisoners to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City should have been turned over to the county treasurer, but instead was kept by the sheriff.

The sheriff said that turning the money in is an unnecessary formality.

"I'm supposed to bill the county and they turn right around and give me my money back," he said. "I guess I should do it because the state only gives me seven cents a mile and the county allows me 10 cents. I could get another $1,000 or so back."

What about the $14,643 that the auditor says the sheriff owes because he withheld fees in excess of the amount allowable?

"They say I'm not entitled to it, and I say I Am," Mr. Scott replied. "This is the same thing the auditor claimed six years ago when they set me up $18,000 short.

"They weren't able to collect it then and they won't be able to collect it now."

The sheriff said he has been at odds with the auditor for some years.

"It's just a matter of the auditor's being Republican and this being a solid Democratic county," Sheriff Scott said.

Savage General Manager of Moore's Stores

BRAINTREE, Mass. — The appointment of Edwin M. Savage of Roanoke, Va., to senior vice president and general manager of Moore's Super Stores, headquartered in Roanoke, was announced today by Mike Grossman, president of the Evans Products Company retail group of which both Grossman's and Moore's are divisions.

In his new capacity, Savage will supervise all business operations in the 46 retail outlets of Moore's division. He was formerly senior vice president - operations for Moore's lumber and building materials outlets which in combination with Grossman's now form a chain of 144 stores from Maine to Missouri.

That's The Law
Unemployment for Jailee

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hennessey was no mathematician, but on occasion numbers intoxicated him. Particularly, when he was out boozing with the boys. After knocking off a bottle of Three Feathers, Four Roses and Seven Crown, he was ready to drink even Beethoven's Fifth if he could find it.

On one such occasion, however, he got so potted he arrested for being inebriated in public and was sentenced to 30 days in the pokey. And, if that wasn't bad enough, his boss canned him for being in the can during that time instead of at work.

Thirty days later, Hennessey, finding himself both out of jail and out of work, applied for unemployment benefits.

"You're a good man, Hennessey," he was told, "but a man who voluntarily leaves his job without good cause isn't entitled to unemployment benefits."

"Who left his job voluntarily?" questioned Hennessey. "The only way I could have gotten to work was by staging a jailbreak. Certainly, you didn't want me to do that. Believe me, I would have much preferred to have punched the clock than mark time in a cell."

Determined to collect unemployment benefits, Hennessey took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Hennessey to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Hennessey had not left his work voluntarily since he obviously had had no desire to be in jail. In so ruling, the judge pointed out that he was present at a place (in jail) where he did not wish to be and was absent from a place where he did wish to be (at work).

(Based upon a 1960 Michigan Supreme Court Decision)

A SLIGHT CASE OF SPECIAL PLEADING seems to be in the making in this confrontation between McCook, Neb., patrolman Lauren McConnell and one "Cookie," a bulldog, also of McCook, whose owner and chauffeur is Mrs. William Stewart. For the record, neither Mrs. Stewart nor "Cookie" lost a license.

African Continent Has Growing Pains

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON— The 41-nation Organization of African Unity will open its 1971 summit meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Monday. "Africa is a continental experiment in nation building," commented President Nixon in his state of the world message to Congress early this year. "The excitement and enthusiasm of national birth have phased into the more sober period of growth." Sober, indeed.

The new nations that emerged between 1956-64 from under the canopy of colonial rule have in some cases slid back into the darkness. White author Barnett Potter created a stir throughout Africa with a recent book, The Fault, Black Man..., that describes independent Africa as the land of the begging bowl.

"There are nearly 40 of them and hardly one pays its way," he wrote. "They stay alive thanks to grants-in-aid, loans and various forms of subvention, but they contribute little if anything to the sum of human happiness and welfare and less to the total of human knowledge and goodness." Potter believes Black Africa incapable of an industrial revolution.

Much of the idealism that characterized the early days of independence has vanished. Jonathan Kwitny, a former teacher in Nigeria, tells how the goals of prosperity and black brotherhood have been defeated: "The statesmen of Africa clawed at each other for wealth and power, in the process transferring substantial portions of their nations' treasuries to personal bank accounts in Switzerland. When the legendary freedom fighters fell in military coups d'etat, few rallied to support them. Today one army faction supplants another as African governments slide toward a Latin American sterility."

But Ruth First points out in Power in Africa (1971) that many of Africa's difficulties are the legacy of colonialism. And the developed nations of the world--the United States included--have not provided the new states with more than token assistance. The 41 independent states with 300 million people have been receiving a total of $150 million annually in U.S. foreign aid.

Unsuccessful in forging unified nations, the African leaders also have found the goal of continental unity elusive. Some observers believe the Organization of African Unity (OAU) will survive its upcoming meeting only in name. After eight years, the OAU is split not only by race, language, religion and politics but by different visions.

One group of member nations regards the OAU as a "Holy Alliance" dedicated to preserving the status quo. They stress preservation of existing borders and non-interference in internal affairs of member states. An activist faction of the OAU, on the other hand, hopes for an economic and social transformation in Africa and sees the OAU as a means of mobilizing resources for the liberation of territories under white minority rule.

The "Holy Alliance" countries are still in the majority, and radical leaders are described as disillusioned. Old Africa hand Russell Warren Howe reports that the summit conference "is expected to polarize the radical and moderate blocs in Africa, with Emperor Haile Selassie playing his usual role as mediator."

One showdown will come over Ivory Coast President Felix Houphouet-Boigny's proposal for a diplomatic "dialogue" with white-ruled South Africa. Twenty-eight countries with 69 per cent of the continent's population oppose such a "dialogue", including the nine largest African nations. Despite such pangs of disunity, total disintegration of the OAU probably will be avoided.

Leader Says Bar Will Seek Judicial Reform Elsewhere

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., (AP) — The president elect of the Missouri Bar, Ernest M. Fremont Jr. of Kansas City, said Friday the bar no longer is going to recommend changes in the judicial system and then stand idly by and watch the proposals die in the legislature.

During the legislative session just ended, Fremont said in a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the State Judicial . Conference, bills for judicial revision and for a public defender system died.

Even with concerted efforts of the bench and bar, he said, it is apparently impossible to achieve needed changes under the present legislative system.

"I propose that we again fire up the plan for a complete revision of the judicial articale," he said, "and direc our efforts at obtaining it either through an initiative petition or through a constitutional convention."

A proposal for a new constitutional convention died on first round debate in the House months ago.

He said that the time has come when the organized bar must take the lead in seeing to it that the judiciary is truly an equal branch of government and not a political subdivision, whose efficiency depends on the whim of politicians—to see to it that the third and equal branch of government is removed from the position of being a supplieant which must stand silently with outstretched hand, awaiting its doie, while being flagellated for the inefficiences of a system which it is powerless to change."

He said in the past the bar has preferred not to have a legislative representative—or lobbyist—on the payroll. But that era is ending.

"The board of governors has now decided that it would be wise to have a person on the staff whose primary duty would be legislative representation," Fremont said. "We are now actively seeking a mature, experienced lawyer for this position."

This week, Fremont said, 30 teachers are enrolled in an intensive two-week course to familiarize them with the judicial system, the legal system and due process of law. They will take their newly acquired knowledge back to their classrooms and the results of the pilot program will be assessed at the end of the coming school year, Fremont said.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

Giving thanks always for all things unto God. (Esphesians 5:20)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our Father, for life itself. All that we are and all that we have is a gift from Thee. With humble and grateful hearts we go about our living today. Amen.

Two Stations Win Citations

Two Standard Oil Dealers in Sikeston have qualified as "Fresh as a Daisy" service stations in Standard Oil Company's annual appearance and cleanliness inspections.

Ronald J. Kruep, field sales manager for the company, in Cape Girardeau, announced that Ray Hart, whose station is located at Interstate 55 and highway 62 East, and Bill Skaggs station at north Mainand Tanner Street are eligible to win one of thirteen 1971 Jeeps or one of a hundred smaller prizes.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, June 21, the 172nd day of 1971. There are 193 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1788, the U.S. Constitution went into effect as New Hampshire became the ninth state to ratify it.

On this date:

In 1834, inventor Cyrus McCormick obtained a patent for his reaper.

In 1898, the first U.S. troops landed in Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1919, in World War I, German sailors scuttled part of a German fleet interned at Scapa Flow in Scotland.

In 1942, in World War II, 30,000 British soldiers were taken prisoner when Tobruk, Libya, fell to the Germans.

In 1954, John Landy of Australia established a new World's record when he ran the mile in three minutes, 58 seconds at Turku, Finland.

In 1963, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Milan, Italy, was elected pope. He took the name of Paul VI.

Ten years ago: U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said his visits to 10 South American countries indicated that U.S. prestige had been hurt by the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba.

Five years ago: King Faisal of Saudi Arabia arrived in Washington for talks with President Lyndon B. Johnson.

One year ago: Marine Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz of Wierton, W. Va., was sentenced to life in prison in the killing of 12 Vietnamese women and children.

Thirty Five Teachers Gather in Reunion

Graduation reunions are a popular event but a teacher reunion is a rare occasion.

Thirty five former teachers, their wives and husbands, and guests honored former School Superindent, R.A. Harper, who served in Sikeston from 1937 to 1944.

Arranged by Maurice Stewart, Jefferson City, who taught diversified occupations under Harper and assisted by Tharon Stallings and Lonnie Standley, gathered the teachers at the Ramada Inn Saturday night for a banquet.

Among those speaking to the gathering were Harper, Garland Parker, now vice provost for admissions at University of Cincinnati; Stallings, who followed Harper as superintendent; Laurence Knepper, Webster Groves; Electa O'Hara; Vernon Green of Memphis; Jean Collins, and Standley.

The teachers gathered in Sikeston Saturday and at 1 p.m. were taken on a tour of the school grounds. Another tour was taken of the city, with Clem Beal, a 1938 graduate of Sikeston high, the conductor.

The group returned to the Ramada Inn for a reception at 5 p.m.

Following the banquet many were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Collins.

Corn Blight In Six Iowa Counties

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Southern corn leaf blight has turned up in six more Iowa counties, bringing to 16 the number thus far infested, according to the Iowa State University leaf blight committee.

The committee Friday identified the six new counties as Tama, Black Hawk, Hardin, Page, Hamilton and Carroll.

The committee pointed out that a county is put on the "infested" category if just one corn field in the county is infected with the blight.

Iowa State University extension entomologist, Harold Gunderson, said also that corn borer infestations running as high as 100 per cent have been reported in some southeast Iowa counties.

He said a southeastern Iowa survey last week showed corn borers at the rate of 10 to 1,000 borers per 100 plants in corn standing 30-40 inches with leaves extended.

Western Iowa corn also has been attacked by army worms, which usually tend to begin feeding in pastures or small grain fields and then move to corn fields.

Army worms have been particularly noticeable in minimum tillage fields and in corn fields where the grass has been killed by herbicides, said Gunderson.

State School Funds Distributed

NEW MADRID— State public school funds totalling $490,098 have been disbursed to county schools by County Treasurer W. R. Phillips Jr.

Districts and amounts received are Risco, $40,004; Gideon, $56,256; and New Madrid R-1 Enlarged, $393,838.

HUMANE OFFICER JIM SHERWOOD, holds a 38-inch boa constrictor that he found in the vicinity of Brannum Street. He is keeping the snake in a box at his home at the request of Police Sgt. Leonard Campbell, who said it was probably a pet.

CAPETOWN, S. Africa (AP) University students are rendering the world a service by rejecting the cultural impulses that lead to racism, militarism, social and economic injustice, the Rev. Dr. W.A. Visser 't Hooft, honorary president of the World Council of Churches, told a University of Capetown audience.

Graveside rites were at 3 p.m. today in the Garden of Memories cemetery with the Rev. Kelly Tolbert officiating, with Nunnelee Funeral Home in charge.

Three Hurt

PARMA— Three were injured in a two-car mishap at 6:45 p.m. Saturday three miles north of Parma on highway 153.

A 1969 Dodge going north, driven by Nat Bennett, 71, of Parma, attempted to pass a northbound 1970 Ford, driven by Caroline Sue Powers, 20, of Campbell, the highway patrol said, and struck the Ford when the Ford attempted to pass a tractor.

The driver of the Ford sustained minor injuries. Shirley Powers, 22, of Campbell, a passenger in the Ford, sustained internal injuries. Another passenger in the Ford, Roger Gill, 23, of Riverside, N.J., sustained a head injury.

All were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

TRUSTING THE UNKNOWABLE

NEW YORK (AP) Christian fundamentalism, which rejects critical analysis of the Bible, "pretends to offer men security where there can be no security," says famed German theologian Rudolph Bultmann.

In a new book on his works issued by Doubleday, "The Thought of Rudolf Bultmann," by Andre Malet, the influential, but controversial theologian says faith provides no answer to "the riddle of life."

Rather, faith is sheer "trust in the grace of God which has called man to life and gives life a meaning, even though man does not see the meaning yet."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Memo Says Pastore On Manufacturers' Side In Auto Safety; Senator Bitterly Denies Any Connection With Auto Industry; Anderson Exposed Pentagon's Discrepancies Before The Times

THE "COCKPIT" of the intensive care unit, where monitoring signals are received, is the center of activity for nurses. Sue Leigh, ward clerk, and Juanita Williams, licensed practical nurse, record data. The four tiny white spots in the right foreground of the picture are monitored signals of the heartbeats of four patients.

Intensive Care Unit Resembles Cockpit Of Large Airliner

EDITORS NOTE--This is the second of a series of articles about operations of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

By JUDY STROUP

If you have ever been inside the cockpit of a big airliner, you probably have an idea of the appearance of the intensive care unit at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The main feature of the unit is a monitoring system which projects a picture of each patient's heatbeat on an oscilliscope. The elaborate monitoring system also has an alarm device. Nurses set a limit for the patient's blood pressure reading, and if the blood pressure varies above or below those limits, an alarm is sounded.

"All this is expensive but well worth it," stated Mrs. Linda Boyd, one of the three registered nurses who supervise the intensive care unit.

"The monitoring system is the key difference between this floor and other floors."

"The first thing we do when a person comes to ICU from the emergency room or elsewhere is attach them to a monitor, start intravenous fluids, and check their vital signs, like respiration, blood pressure, and temperature. We usually start oxygen to give the heart a rest."

Intravenous fluids are started because they are vehicles for medication in the body when an injection might be impossible due to collapsed blood vessels.

The unit has four coronary beds and three intensive care beds, which are usually reserved for surgical risk patients, or for those who have suffered complications during surgery.

"Blood pressure is checked every two hours a day and every four hours a night," Mrs. Boyd said. The reason it is checked less often at night is to allow for rest periods.

Cost of an intensive care bed per day is $100.

According to Harold Jones, hospital administrator, the average cost for all services is $227 per patient day, which includes the room, intravenous fluids, nursing service, medications, inhalation therapy, and other supportive services.

"But many people cannot pay those bills," Jones said.

"You go ahead and treat them if they cannot pay and try to find some way to finance it. Often they are eligible for government money."

Pat Jones, assistant administrator, acts as a counselor for the hospital for those who cannot pay, and helps them find sources of financial aid.

Harold Jones explained that most people don't realize they are paying not only for the hospital bed, but also for the extensive services offered.

The ratio of personnel to patient in ICU is reduced too. A maximum capacity is seven patients, and four to five employes are always on duty. A ward clerk handles all paper work, which leaves a charge nurse, medication nurse, and two assistants to attend to the patients.

"The patient is more closely watched," Mrs. Boyd explained.

Personnel in intensive care are specially trained

"Besides my basic nursing, I took a three-month course at Missouri University Medical Center," the supervisor said. The course included study of abnormal heart patterns and solution of problems arising in treatment of the critical patient.

"Classes were five days a week. We came home with three months of homework, and went back for a week of examinations," Mrs. Boyd explained.

"The medication and charge nurses have had this type of training. The aides had worked on the floors before coming to intensive care, and were chosen because of their experience.

Those trained have been used as instructors for the nursing staff.

"We are one of the accepted training centers that Missouri Regional Medical Program recognizes in the state," Jones said. "It was an obligation we took before we could be funded."

The ICU was financed by this program, and Dr. Carl Popp directed the administration of the grant.

"We have really benefited from this training; nurses here adapt to emergency situations much better than before," nurse Boyd said.

After an accident or coronary victim suffers a threatening episode during treatment, he is usually kept under intensive care three to five more days. The average length of stay in ICU is four days; coronary victims average five days.

"Three weeks is about the longest a patient has stayed in intensive care," Mrs. Boyd said. Coronary patients usually are between the ages of 40 to 75.

"Children are always special," Mrs. Boyd continued. "We had one little girl who had rheumatic fever. This was just before Christmas, and she wanted a doll. One of the pediatricians brought one of his children's dolls from home. It was a Raggedy Ann that sang. We could hear the doll singing above the monitor."

One teenager, who was an active basketabll player, was placed in traction after an accident, and became depressed when he couldn't move around.

"Children are more frightened than adults," Mrs. Boyd said, "but they respond to treatment and adapt to new ideas easier."

She recalled one young man whose condition required that a permanent electronic pacemaker be installed inside his body to regulate his heartbeat. "He came back from surgery sitting straight up on the cart, with his new pacemaker installed, calling out, 'I've been recharged!" she laughed.

When asked if she became depressed when working with critically ill patients, Mrs. Boyd replied, "No, I love it. You feel the patients gets the maximum care. You feel as if you have done all you possibly can for him."

Swimming Classes to Open Monday

The Kiwanis club has announced dates for its annual swimming instruction classes.

Registration is Thursday and Friday for the lessons, which begin on next Monday and run through July 10. Registration will be at the Jaycee swimming pool.

Anyone seven or older is eligible. There will be three hour long classes daily.

A four, five and six-year-old session is scheduled July 19.

Mayor Denies City Gun War On Stray Dogs

MATTHEWS— Mayor Harold Burch said today he wants to put an end to rumors that a city employe has been shooting stray dogs at random.

"This is not true," he said. "We take stray dogs to the dog pound. We do not go around in the city shooting animals. Anyone doing so is violating the law."

The mayor said someone has shot two dogs, but whoever committed the act was not with the city "in any way."

Ferrell Named President Of Missouri's Young Democrats

Missouri Young Democrats Saturday elected William F. "Bill" Ferrell of Sikeston prisident. Ferrell succeeds Ray Webb of Kansas City.

Bill Burch of Sikeston, who nominated Ferrell, described him as "ambitious and capable of getting a job done." Ferrell was elected without opposition.

Arkansas Congressman Bill Alexander of Osceola addressed the closing session of the two-day convention Saturday night. Alexander said inflation, taxes, Social Security, unemployment, and health care will be political issues next year and challenged office seekers to appeal to the optimism of voters rather than to their frustrations. An enthusiastic supporter of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, Alexander endorsed Mills for president in 1972 saying "with a man like Wilbur Mills in the White House, a man who can provide solutions to critical problems, restore confidence in the economy, and provide direction to the meandering foreign policy, the government can again speak to the imagination of America." He said Mills has had long experience in government and is fully qualified to lead the nation as president.

"The Democrats do not need a show horse as a presidential nominee in 1972 — we need a master craftsman in government like Wilbur Mills," he said.

Jim S. Green

James S. Green was named outstanding Young Democrat for the past year. Green was general chairman of this year's state convention.

Other election results: executive vice president Jim Elliott of Warrensburg; Administrative Vice President Sue West of Jefferson City; Vice President Doug Pew of St.Louis; Vice President Bob Hequembourg of Jefferson City; Corresponding Secretary Judy Oliver of Jefferson City; Recording Secretary Bob Hasleg of Springfield; Treasurer Sam Pikey of Portageville; National Committeewoman Arlean Asel of Jefferson City; National Committeeman Bill Lockman of Kansas City; Sergeants at Arms Harriett Swinger, Jefferson City and Joe Services of Kansas City. The Saline County Young Democrats Club was named the outstanding organization in the state.

Supreme Court Agrees to Rule On Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Juveniles accused of crime can be tired without juries, the Supreme Court ruled 6 to 3 today.

The decision, delivered by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, approved the current practice in a majority of the states.

It ended a process in the high court of affording juvenile defendants many Bill of Rights protections.

The court agreed today to rule on the legality of government wiretapping of domestic groups the Justice Department decides post a danger to national security.

The question is whether a judge must approve the wiretapping in advance. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell contends judicial approval is not necessary. The federal appeals court in Cincinnati contends it is required by the 4th Amendment to the Constitution.

The Supreme Court will hear the government's appeal from the ruling, involving surveillance of the now-defunct White Panther party, next term.

Mitchell's position is that the Justice Department, exercising a presidential power, has the constitutional authority to wiretap, without judicial approval, groups the government suspects pose a danger to national security.

The attorney general thereby draws no legal distinction between the gathering of foreign intelligence information and alleged threats from outside powers and the gathering of information "deemed necessary to protect the nation from attempts of domestic organizations" to subvert the government.

Mitchell contends all such wiretapping is not outlawed by the Fourth Amendment, which forbids "unreasonable" searches and seizures, and is authorized also by the 1968 federal crime control law.

In an appeal to the Supreme Court May 8, the Justice Department said "the line between domestic activity and foreign intelligence is often blurred, or merged."

The U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, is a 2 to 1 ruling last April, held domestic surveillance without judicial approval unlawful under the Fourth Amendment.

The case involves government wiretapping of Lawrence Plamundon, a White Panther accused of bombing a Center Intellgence Agency office at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Witnesses To Be Called In Medina Murder Trial

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Defense attorneys, seeking dismissal of charges that Capt. Ernest Medina murdered 102 villagers at My Lai, planned today to call the first of seven witnesses scheduled to testify at a pretrial hearing.

Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey said he would prove through their testimony that improper command influence was exerted in bringing Medina to trial and that he was a victim of military conspiracy.

Among the witnesses ordered to appear are Aubrey Daniel, former Army captain who successfully prosecuted Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of murder at My Lai; and Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, commanding general at Ft. McPherson.

It was not known in what order witnesses would appear, but Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, indicated Connor would not take the stand the first day because of a heavy schedule.

Bailey contended at a hearing last Wednesday that the captain's trial is the result of "improper, unethical and illegal conduct" by Army officers and that this was grounds for dropping the charges against him.

Medina is charged with murdering 102 villagers at My Lai and with assaulting one Vietnamese when Charlie Company, whic he commanded, swept through the village March 16, 1968.

Eight Charged With Breakins

BENTON— Sheriff John Dennis said today eight juveniles were arrested Saturday morning in Benton charged with breaking into the American Legion building and Bollinger's store here.

Dennis said the youths took approximately $200 worth of beer, cigarettes, and other odds and ends.

He said the juveniles were turned over to Juvenile Officer Fred Glover.

Two Brothers Arrested

BENTON— Two brothers, Elvis and Charles Kaiser, were arrested by highway patrolmen after a fighting incident east of Miner, Sheriff John Dennis said today.

Dennis said the pair are in Scott County jail at Benton. Charles Kaiser is charged with public intoxication.

Dennis said the patrol chased Elvis Kaiser to Kluge's Hill, north of Sikeston, where he was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Saturday. When asked for information about the incident, a spokesman at highway patrol headquarters in Poplar Bluff said he "had no information on it."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

So many people spend so much time trying to have a good time, and don't have it.

* * *

HANOI'S CREDIBILITY SLUMPS TO ZERO

In the more than three years since the North Vietnamese began meeting with the Allies in Paris, ostensibly to arrange peace in South Vietnam, the enemy spokesmen have refused to release any prisoners of war. With a victory for the Allies at hand, they want us to surrender first.

Now they want us to believe they might have given something in exchange for the return to North Vietnam of 570 war prisoners held in South Vietnam. But only thirteen of the 570 wanted to go back to their homeland. The others may have feared reprisals for having been taken prisoners. Or else they simply preferred living in a free country, even in prison, than living as "free" men under Communist rule. So Hanoi threw up a great smokescreen, rather than accept the few wounded men who were willing to return to that unhappy country.

The Communists' expressions of scorn for the South Vietnamese' offer to send back any of the 570 prisoners who wished to go, regardless of whether the enemy reciprocated, was entirely expectable. It is an old Communist custom. Communists' words have no credibility. They will do whatever they want to whenever they decide. Nothing they say is worth listening to for reliable meaning. That is the record of more than three years of effort. The peace table, whether round, square, or oval or oblong, is only another site for conflict: war in a different form. Let us never weary in the struggle.

We guess that they'll simmer down and finally agree that it is alright for the church to do this, because it looks like the churches and the trust funds of the rich, who were created by the deceased, that that is the only way they can get rid of the money and they don't apparently care how much trouble they are causing by this.

NEWSPAPERS ARE RETAILER'S BASIC ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Recently, the nation's leading advertising agency executives received an important lesson on the importance of newspaper advertising from the sales promotion manager of one of the largest retail advertisers, J. C. Penney Company.

William R. Johnson told the gathering of the American Association of Advertising Agencies that newspaper advertising is the "backbone of our advertising effort" and warned the agency men against believing this is only because it is "traditional."

"Our store managers know that their newspaper ads produce sales dollars," he said. "They are perfectly willing, even eager, to use radio and television in carefully selected lines, but don't try to cut back on their newspaper budget."

His explanation of the effectiveness of newspapers for a retailer tells it better than many newspaper salesmen:

"I think all you have to do is recall how your wife reads her paper. She reads it like a shopping news. Sure she reads the news, the editorials, but if she wants to outfit her kids with shoes for school, she looks through the retail ads in the paper to find out who's selling what kind of shoes, at how much ... or how much they've been reduced.

"Sometimes she even tears out the ad and carries it into the store. Every Penney manager has seen this happen hundreds of times. He has yet to see a woman come into the store carrying radio or television commercial. And he cannot imagine a woman sitting in front of a television set all day waiting for a children's shoe commercial. Can you?"

THE RIGHT TO PUBLISH

The federal government is not justified in trying to repress newspaper publication of a report on the Vietnam war written under direction of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967.

Melvin R. Laird, the present Defense Secretary, was wrong in asking the Justice Department to act against the New York Times for printing stories based on the report.

No newspaper should be sued or threatened with prosecution for publishing stories involving the government's action.

United States District Murray I. Gurfein has acted unwisely in ordering a temporary halt — until Saturday — to publication of the stories. He should have dismissed the suit brought by the Justice Department.

Freedom of the press is the fundamental cornerstone of our democracy. If that freedom vanishes with fear of a government crackdown on reporters and editors, democracy itself will die. If the Justice Department could prove someone stole the McNamara report from the Pentagon, then let the Attorney General and his staff prosecute the culprit for theft of printed matter.

That is the only area where the Justice Department has jurisdiction in this case.

A quite different situation is the attempt to halt publication of a report conveniently stamped "top secret" by person or persons unknown to the American public.

Even conceding the possibility national security could be menaced in some measure by publication of the stories — though it is difficult to perceive how — we are better off running this risk than to submit to the stifling hand of government suppression.

The right to write and the right to read are absolutely essential if a government truly is to exist with the consent of the governed.

We feel the government risks ridicule by invoking the Espionage Act against the New York Times, its publisher and 21 other reporters, editors and officers of the company.

The espionage law states:

"Whoever having unauthorized possession of, access to, or control over any document, writing, code book . . . or information relating to the national defense which information the possessor has reason to believe could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation, wilfully communicates, delivers, transmits the same to any person not entitled to receive it . . . shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned more than 10 years, or both."

The government would appear to be on very shaky ground indeed in trying to prove the American people do not have the right to know the contents of a Pentagon report on what went on in Vietnam prior to 1967.

Embarrassment? Perhaps. Espionage? Hardly!

There is a moral for all War on Poverty programs, and that moral is classically expressed in the Dallas program. It has used 60% or more of its funds for salaries and expenses to run a foul anti-establishment political club, going so far as to hire friends of SNCC and Che Guevara. The local program has purposely divided city and county authorities by threatening violence; hence, when the city buckled under, it left the responsbility to do what is right at the doorstep of County Judge Lew Sterrett. Sterrett is a politically wise and battle-scarred veteran who learned along the way that the people he represents will not tolerate — for very long — the misuse of their tax funds. That is why he called on Governor Preston Smith to withhold funds from the local program until, as it were, the rascals in the Dallas Community Action Program are removed. Smith, to his eternal credit, agreed. Moral: Only brave and principled men can make OEO work, but it takes years off one's life.

Man wouldn't breathe as well without forests. An acre of young and growing woodland yields four tons of oxygen a year—enough to satisfy the needs of a dozen people.

Overeating may make some people more susceptible to the invasion of cancer. Laboratory studies have produced evidence that underfed rats don't develop cancerous tumors as often as those that are overfed.

The marriage mill in Leningrad is the state-owned Palace of Weddings where every day, including Sunday, couples can be wed during an eight-minute ceremony costing $1.65. Champagne and flowers are available but—just as in capitalistic countries—they come extra.

Have your parents ever told you the first words you uttered as a child? It is reported that the first sentence by Ernest Hemingway, spoken before his second birthday, was: "I don't know Buffalo Bill."

Durable: The monarch butterfly is one of the most colorful of earth's migrants and looks to be one of the most fragile. Yet in its erratic pilgrimages it travels thousands of miles at a speed of up to 20 miles an hour.

Sun peril: Recent studies have confirmed the fact that ultraviolet rays from the sun are implicated in lip cancer—so beware this danger in getting a fashionable summer tan. Because they spend more time outdoors and don't wear lipstick, men are more likely than women to get lip cancer. Men living in southern areas of the United States also get twice as many lip cancers as those who live farther north, where the sun's rays are weaker.

Worth remembering: "Happiness is like potato salad. When you share it with others, everybody has a picnic."

INDUSTRY SOLVES REFUSE PROBLEM

One of the answers to the problem of air pollution by incinerators is the use of compaction, which automatically compresses all kinds of refuse, cans, bottles, food, even tough bundles of newspapers into a compact cylindrical slug.

The International Dynetics Corp., of Norwalk, Conn., has developed a family of advanced compactors to solve most business and consumer needs. Their larger unit has an adjustable compaction ratio of more than 10 to 1, and will handle over 20 tons of refuse per day. The refuse is sprayed with a deodorizer and insecticide and is then automatically ejected into can or bag. The unit runs only when there is refuse to be processed.

Seymour Ostreicher, president of the company, says that the present orders for the unites are greater than inventory.

A TRAGIC DEATH

Freddie Steinmark was a small man as athletes go, but he had the determination of a champion and that is what he was. When final rites were conducted and the last homage paid in his hometown of Denver, Colo., a photograph of Freddie in his University of Texas football uniform bearing his famous jersey number, 28, stood near the casket.

Many in this nation may not have remembered that number but they remembered Freddie's courage. One of those who remembered both was University of Texas football coach Darrell Royal. Royal remembered also that when Freddie Steinmark came to the University of Texas the youngster from Colorado weighed only 155 pounds. Coach Royal would later say that Freddie had 155 pounds of heart. He not only made the team, but he helped carry it to a national championship.

Even as Freddie Steinmark was playing his final game for the University of Texas, he was suffering the pains of a cancerous leg. Doctors at M.D. Anderson Hospital diagnosed it as sarcoma cancer. The doctors amputated 20 year old Freddie's left leg and began a battle to save his life with chemo-therapy. Freddie fought, too. That was in 1969. He continued his fight into the spring of 1971 and an entire nation pulled for him to survive. But Freddie and the doctors lost the battle with cancer.

Had the working tools of the doctors matched Freddie's courage, they would have won. So would hundreds of thousands of other cancer victims. B[illegible] tools are not available yet. The doctors must have those tools. Science and money and determination like Freddie's eventually will find them. A national effort must be made to hasten that day of triumph. Freddie Steinmark's death should not be in vain. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--A confidential memo between Ford executives shows how the auto company has been lobbying in the backrooms against tougher safety standards.

The memo also indicates that Senator John Pastore, D-R.I., a key member of the committee shaping auto safety legislation, is talking out of both sides of his mouth.

The company apparently found a Ford dealer in Pastore's home state who is close to the Senator. Bob Tasca, a Providence Ford dealer and fellow Italian-American, was asked to talk to Pastore.

In a report on the conversation, Ford's community affairs manager, Richard Powers, wrote: "The Senator...told Bob that when a consumer issue is before him and the cameras are on, he is not about to be anything but supportive of the issue."

But the memo went on: "The Senator reiterated that 'we will handle the situation.' He said 'we must be certain that the auto industry survives and profitably' and that 'something has to be done to stem the tide of the adverse publicity that the industry is getting.'"

Both Pastore and Tasca admitted they had discussed the auto safety legislation, but they claimed the confidential Ford document has misquoted them.

The memo, addressed to A.W. Merrell, Ford's vice president in charge of governmental affairs, deals with the company's efforts to soften the safety standards for automobiles.

The automakers are most upset by proposed regulations that would compel them to strengthen car bumpers. We have already reported on Ford's backstage lobbying. Henry Ford II has gone so far as to call upon President Nixon reportedly to brief him on the problems the automakers would have in meeting the proposed regulations.

--FORD'S LOBBYING--

Now it appears Ford has also tried to influence Pastore who, at a Senate Commerce hearing, put on a show of debunking John Nevin, a Ford vice president who has just resigned to become president of Zenith.

"For what it's worth," begins Richard Power's confidential memo, dated June 4, 1971, "it appears that we have not lost Senator Pastore...Bob Tasca met with the Senator last night and discussed the bill again with him and his critical comments during John Nevin's testimony."

The memo indicated that Pastore had been harsh on Nevin because "the cameras were on" but that he was willing to help Ford's cause behind the kleig lights. He was quoted as assuring Tasca that "we will handle the situation."

The memo adds: "(Pastore) suggested that he and Tasca should meet quarterly so that Tasca could bring him up to date on developments in the automobile industry."

News of Pastore's backstage cooperation, continues the memo, "has been relayed to the Washington staff."

Pastore explosively denied to us that he had engaged in any such conversation. "I can't help what Bob Tasca said to anybody. It sounds to me like somebody is trying to look like a bigshot" by bragging of his influence with him, the Senator said.

After our inquiries, Tasca and Powers got together on the long-distance phone and agreed upon a common story.

"I wrote the memo," Powers told us, "but it is apparently wrong. Evidently a lot of things got lost in translation. I wrote the memo to my boss purely as an information piece. It was not quite correct. All I can do is apologize."

--PENTAGON SECRETS--

We have been able, occasionally, to compare the Pentagon's secret papers with its public pronouncements. The discrepancies, as we have noted from time to time, have been dismaying.

This is now evident from the Vietnam documents that the New York Times has laid before the public. But the unpublished documents, still in Pentagon use, are no more candid than the historical documents published by the Times.

For instance, the Nixon Administration has emphasized repeatedly that it is winding down the war. Yet at the same time, it has updated contingency plans for a devastating aerial assault upon North Vietnam.

These top-secret plans, drawn up last October by General Creighton Abrams in Saigon and transmitted to the Pentagon on October 17, offer options for a three-day, seven-day or ten-day aerial offensive. The contingency papers include detailed plans for the bombing and mining of Haiphong Harbor.

This, of course, would be a dangerous escalation of the war. Soviet shipping in the harbor almost certainly would be hit, inviting the Kremlin to retaliate.

Administration spokesman have also denied that American ground troops have crossed into Cambodia or Laos since the U.S. withdrawal from Cambodia last June. Secret Pentagon papers show, however, that MACSOG teams, made up of U.S. special forces and South Vietnamese rangers, made several raids into both countries up until the end of November.

The Cambodian raids were known by the secret code name "Salem House" and the Laos raids were identified as "Prairie Fire." Some of the teams were ambushed by waiting North Vietnamee who obviously had been tipped off in advance.

During the U.S. drive into Cambodia a year ago, spokesmen at first stated and later denied that a principal objective was the capture of COSVN, the secret North Vietnamese headquarters in Cambodia. Secret Pentagon papers recall that Defense Secretary Mel Laird, in a message to General Creighton Abrams, urged COSVN's capture.

Abrams thought he knew where COSVN was located, because the Army had intercepted radio messages from the North Vietnamese command center. Crack troops zeroed in on the location but found no sign of the headquarters. By continuing to monitor enemy radio transmissions, the Army continued a hop-skip-and-jump chase but never caught up with COSVN.

WAR SPENDING DOWN-SHARPLY: Defense (Dept.) Action Council Has Double Duty; Dollars Solving Critical Domestic Problems.

by Victor Riesel

There is the impression that every dollar appropriated for the Pentagon winds up in a bigger bang cannon, bomber or bullet. Those who watch the Dept. of Defense closely know that many billions for the defense of a way of life, development of ideas, training of men, and tranquility on the domestic front.

When I asked Defense Secretary Melvin Laird for his views on what was his department's most significant contribution, in addition to the protection of this nation, he analyzed the role of the defense dollar in our tense, teeming, often explosive home front.

Here is his analysis, written in specific answer to my specific question:

By Melvin R. Laird
Secretary of Defense

Washington: -- A recent Gallup Poll found that one-half of the American people think too much is being spent for defense. Forty-two per cent think the amount spent for defense is about right or is too little, and the remaining eight per cent don't know.

Such polls have consistently shown roughly similar results over the past several years.

They have also shown that these judgments are based on faculty and scanty information. Very few people (only 8 per cent, according to a Gallup Poll in 1970) can give even an approximation of the amount spent for defense. Most are unaware of the great shifts in the federal budget which have taken place during the Nixon Administration, reducing the share devoted to defense from 43 per cent of the national government's expenditure in 1968 to 32 per cent during the upcoming fiscal year. Most do not know that less than 7 per cent of the Gross National Product will go for defense in fiscal year 1972 and that the new Strategy of Realistic Deterrence adopted by the Administration aims to keep defense spending below that 7 per cent level.

Most people, when they think of defense spending, do not appear to have caught up with current history. They are still thinking of the past when our country was increasing its involvement in combat in Vietnam, when almost 10 per cent of the Gross National Product was spent on defense, and when defense spending was constantly rising.

The polls reveal one further misconception about defense spending. They show that most people think that every dollar spent for defense is a dollar taken away from the accomplishment of the social purposes of the nation and from the solution of pressing domestic problems. The dollar allotted to the Department of Defense, they believe, is a dollar that does not help to improve the education, the health, the housing, the environment of the American people or to bring closer to them any of the other things that make for a better life.

In fact, however, many defense dollars do double duty. Every dollar spent by the Department of Defense has, of course, a defense purpose. But very often it serves other purposes as well and contributes significantly to the solution of those domestic problems which give us all great concern.

We do not usually think of the armed forces as an educational institution, but education is one of their major activities. In vocational education, they offer training of a scope unmatched in any civilian school system. And about 85 per cent of the skills for which the armed forces train their personnel are skills that are used in the civilian job market. Further, approximately 15 per cent of those in military service are pursuing academic courses--all but a few as part-time students in addition to regular military duties--at all levels in the educational structure. The armed forces also maintain an elementary and secondary school system for the children of military personnel, chiefly overseas, which is as large as the public school systems in such states as South Dakota, Rhode Island, or Idaho.

In the field of health, the Department of Defense has always made an important contribution to improved care and treatment for the people of the nation. The introduction of smallpox vaccination into the United States and the discovery of the cure for yellow fever are among the great advances in medicine for which the military can claim credit. The ambulance was a military invention, and today the use of the helicopter for medical evacuation is being introduced in civilian medical practice after the armed forces did the pioneering work in combat theaters. Among other discoveries that military medicine has made available area anti-malarial drugs, a vaccine to prevent some forms of meningitis and typhus, techniques for treating burns and grafting and replacing tissue, and effective equipment for the management of trauma and shock.

After careful study, the Department of Defense has evolved a plan for a new type of hospital which will be far more efficient functionally and less costly to operate than the traditional hospital. We shall build a prototype, which will serve as a model for construction of such a facility for future years.

Still another field in which dollars spent by the Defense Department help to show the way toward solution of a major social problem is the field of housing. At George Air Force Base in California, we are building at the rate of one house each day, 200 housing units constructed in various combinations of standard modules produced by a factory at the construction site. We expect the cost of these homes to be 15 to 20 per cent lower than conventional construction. This example of what can be done will help to put good housing within the reach of a great number of families in our nation who are now priced out of the market.

I could go indefinitely with further examples of activity carried on by the Defense Department in a number of fields that provides substantial benefits to civilian society in addition to insuring the security of the nation.

For example, because of the research and development work done by the armed forces, people can travel by air with greater speed in greater comfort and safety than would otherwise be possible. Most modern commercial aircraft are adaptions of planes originally developed for the armed forces. The technology that provides automated air traffic control systems was pioneered in the Defense Department. Radar, with its many uses in the field of transportation, exploration of the earth's surface, and weather prediction, first came into use in the armed forces in World War II.

The use of satellites for communication, navigation, mapping and weather observation is another example of a defense initiative which brings benefits to the entire society.

Through an agency which I established in the Department of Defense called the Domestic Action Council, I have sought to see to it that more defense dollars do double duty, collaborating with civilian agencies in dealing with social problems.

It is impossible to give a precise estimate of how much defense spending helps to solve our domestic problems. The President's budget for 1972 estimates that $7.5 billion of the funds requested for the Defense Department for the coming fiscal year will serve such social purposes as education, manpower training, housing, environmental improvement, health, income security, and reduction of crime.

What is clear to anyone familiar with the armed forces is that it is fallacious to draw a sharp line between defense spending and spending for the betterment of American society. Much that is done by the military with funds made available for defense promotes the physical, intellectual, and moral development of the entire society at the same time that it strengthens security and improves the prospects for peace.

Ann Landers

Widow Who Cooks May Scare off Bachelor

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away 18 months ago. He was a wonderful man and we had a good life together, but I realize he is gone forever and now I must make a new life for myself.

I am 43, look younger, and have always kept myself up. I have a problem about men. The ones who have asked me out do not interest me. I see no point in accepting dates just to be seen in public with a male.

The man I would like very much to go out with is my dentist. He was divorced several years ago and he is just about my age. (Maybe a couple of years younger.) He has always treated me in a somewhat formal manner, but I believe this is just his professional posture. He sent me a condolence card when my husband passed away. I considered this a friendly gesture.

I'm a good cook and would like to prepare a delicious meal for this man. I'll bet he gets tired eating in restaurants all the time. Should I give him a call?---Wondering In Tulsa

Dear Wonder: Only if you get a toothache. Nothing scares off a bachelor faster than a widow---who cooks.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is planning to be married in the fall. We all like the young man very much. There is one small problem. My husband had a bone disease as a child and it affected his hip. He has a noticeable limp. Our daughter wants a church wedding, which means she would walk down the aisle on the arm of her father. Both my husband and my daughter are unconcerned about his handicap. They see nothing wrong with a man limping from the back of the church all the way to the altar. I'm afraid the effect might be depressing--or even ludicrous. Perhaps my brother should give the bride away. What is your opinion?---Objective Mother

Dear Ob: The only thing depressing or ludicrous is your attitude. If the father of the bride has a limp---so what? He should not be deprived of one of the greatest joys of his life simply because he has a physical handicap. Your suggestion that an uncle substitute for him is unthinkable.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago when my son was barely 20 he married an 18-year-old girl because she told him she was pregnant. As it turned out she was not, which was a big relief because she would have been a very poor mother.

Zora comes from a family of alcoholics and mental defectives. It nearly killed me when my son married her but I kept my mouth shut. The girl did not graduate from high school. She ignored all suggestions that she enroll in night school and get a diploma. She sleeps all day, reads garbage, watches TV all night, does no housework and drinks beer with her neighbors. A good marriage this isn't.

Last night my son called and asked if he could drop over with a surprise. I said, "Of course." He came in with an attractive young woman who seemed well educated and beautifull mannered. I was cordial. Period. This morning my son called and asked, "How do you like her?" I replied "As far as I am concerned you are a married man. I have nothing more to say."

My husband says I let the boy down. He says our son was seeking approval and I should have given it. Is he right?---His Mother

Dear Mother: No--he is not right. Your son showed irresponsibility and poor taste. He is still married and he should not be bringing a girl to your house for approval, or for anything else.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits--the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex--Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Catalina--Big Tourist Hit

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island--Catalina, a moutainous island ridge jutting out of the Pacific just 22 miles off Los Angeles, the big tourist attraction in Southern California in the thirties, was the spring training camp for the Chicago Cubs and big bands, like Benny Goodman and others, played to crowds in Avalon's large casino, where Hollywood also previewed many new films. In this golden age Avalon, a picturesque mixture of Cape Cod and early Spanish architecture, was always crowded.

Soliders and sailors took over the 76 square-mile island, with its 55 miles of rugged coastline, during World War II, and by the time they left Catalina had taken a back seat in the West's expanding tourist picture.

Today, Catalina is once again in the big time travel picture. New motels, hotels and restaurants have been built and old ones modernized. The big name brands are back at the casino.

"Visitors to Catalina, coming over in the morning and returned to the mainland that night, can enjoy a number of different-type day trips," Continental Airlines travel experts said. "Regularly scheduled sightseeing tours, by both bus and by boat, are operated from Avalon."

The most popular of these is the 40-minute bus trip around Avalon itself, and its surroundings. It passes through the town's permanent residential area, past most of the hotels and inns, the Catalina Visitors Country Club--open to all--and up into the hills overlooking the city, with a breathtaking view of the Bay and sweeping jagged coastline.

A long land tour, taking almost four hours, winds around most of the island's back country, with several stops, including one at the El Rancho Escondido, a working ranch where pure breed Arabian horses are bred.

Nearly all visitors, too, explore Catalina's Undersea Gardens on a glass bottom boat tour, which lasts about an hour and offers fascinating views of multi-colored sea life and growths. There's also a one-hour night boat trip to see the island's famous flying fish. The tour boat's searchlight arouses whole schools of them, causing them to soar up and out of the water.

"Another popular boat trip," says Continental's travel experts, "is along the shoreline to the island's eastern tip, where great numbers of sea lions make their year-round home on the rocks. Many of the performing seals you see in circuses and zoos come from here."

Blake-Schneider

DEXTER — Glowing tapers illuminated the sanctuary of the First Christian Church last Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Miss Linda May Schneider, Dexter, exchanged marriage vows with Denny Truman Blake of Malden.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schneider, Dexter, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Agnes Blake, Malden and the late Truman Blake.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the church pastor, the Rev. Stanley Land.

Mrs. Ben Cowan Jr., provided a medley of pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Stanley Land as she sang "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt in prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal gown of while voile, underskirted with taffeta peau-de-soie. Venise galloon fashion lace was threaded with white stain ribbon and covered the Cameo collar which accented the empire bodice. The lace encircled the waist and two rows was inserted through the bodice both in front and back. Lace overlaid the deep cuff and banded the top of the full Dresden sleeves. The Demi-bell skirt was softly gathered at the side and back waist, and a band of the lace was inserted through the bottom of the skirt. Her chapel length mantilla veil of double bridal illusion was completely edged with matching ribbon-threaded lace, and was held secure with a contour cap of organza loops and flowers.

Miss Schneider carried a simplicity hand bouquet of white daisies and blue daisies, yellow roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Cathy Cox Dunaway, Starkville, Miss., was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Miss Susan Greenquist, St. Louis.

Candlelighters were Steve Schneider Dexter, brother of the bride, and Steve Shelton, Puxico. They were attired in blue suits with yellow rosebud boutonnieres.

Bill Hampton of Campbell was best man and groomsman was Gary Shelton, Dexter.

Attending to the seating of the guests were Jim Schneider, Dexter, brother of the bride, and Wesley Shelton, Malden.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. LaJuana Fowler, Cape Girardeau, was at the guest book and also assisted at the reception.

Mrs. Bonnie Jent of Spencer, Ind., Mrs. Tommy Clark and Mrs. Karen Williams, Dexter, presided at the serving table.

The former Miss Schneider attended the University of Missouri and received a BS degree, dietetic internship at Barnes Hospital. She will be employed as a dietitian at Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau.

The bridegroom received a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Missouri and is an accountant for Hoche and Barklage, a certified public accounting firm of Cape Girardeau.

New Broadcast Center Planned At University

LAKE OZARK, Mo. (AP) — Roy Fisher, new dean of the school of journalism at the University of Missouri in Columbia, says expansion and modernization of the school is being planned.

Fisher told the Missouri Broadcasters Association Thursday that he envisions a new broadcast center that will provide training unmatched anywhere.

He cited the closing of the training school for linetype operators as one effort to modernize.

Recipe for Fun By Girl Scouts

PORTAGEVILLE — A Girl Scout recipe for fun, friendship, tasty food, camping skills, crafts and good citizenship compiled by Kampers Kapers Girl Scout Day Camp.

Mix 64 Girl Scouts, ages seven through 17, from Portageville, New Madrid, Kewanee and Lilbourn neighborhoods from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for five days into a primitive campsite at Schallert Pecan Grove near Boekerton.

Blend adult leaders and three program aide trainees interested in above ingredients, divide into five units, one Brownie unit of second grade students, three junior units consisting of third, fourth and fifth graders; and one cadette unit of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

Add outdoor cooking, hiking, games, singing and crafts for Brownies; 8 requirements for proficiency badges for junior scouts in cyclist, 11 requirements for gypsy and 7 requirements for weaving and basketry; include three overnites in tents for cadettes to complete pioneer badge requirements and three program aide trainees striving to learn skills for day camp staff membership.

Stir with daily camp opening flag ceremonies; rain showers dampening cooking fires; numerous lost and found items; first year unit leaders; minor physical accidents and goof - ups; and a fast pace to complete craft and badge projects for eager Girl Scouts.

Bake with a closing camp program for parents and guests, moved from the campsite into the Portageville park community building because of enduring rain showers. During baking, sprinkle in songs, hiking safety skit, safe cyclist rules, display handmade woven potholders, cracker baskets, macrame belts, tie dyed tee shirts in red, blue, green, purple and orange for unit identification, plastic ponchos, miser bags, booklets, braided belts, amusing stories of camp happenings, camp awards to most eager camper, quietest, dirtiest, best all around, comedian, laziest, best story teller, heaviest dunking bag, most cooperative, most accident prone, and many thank-you expressions to parents for transportation, camp shopper, campsite owners who drilled water pump, and pioneer unit visitors who brought snacks.

Follow recipe directions carefully for happy memories, enduring friendships, useful skills and good citizenship.

Ecology Help From the Bible

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A minister's wife who heads a church environmental advisory group says part of the world pollution problem may stem from misinterpretation of the Bible.

"People read in the Bible that man should have dominion over the earth," said Mrs. Robert Rea of Atlanta, "and they forget it also says nature should be exalted for its own sake."

Mrs. Rea, whose husband is associate pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, is the chairman of the Advisory Group on Environment established last fall by the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

Her advisory group is engaged in the production of educational materials for distribution by the church in May during an environmental emphasis month.

The group has recommended the church make environmental education a permanent part of its religious curriculum.

"If we start educating children through the church," she said, "it might produce dividends for all of us in the years ahead. The church is a logical place for that. It has been almost a Christian fault that some of this has happened. We can trace it biblically."

Reading Is Activity

By SUSAN McKEE
Indianapolis Star Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "Reading, like all the language arts, is an activity, not a 'passivity.' Parents and teachers must set the example by reading to children," says Dr. Barbara Pilon, assistant professor of education at Indiana-Purdue University, Indianapolis.

"Kids love to be read to long past the primary grades," she continues. "I read to students in my college classes almost every week and they love it.

"Learning is a joyful process. Little children are so anxious to start school.

"Then they can't wait to drop out because so many teachers, perhaps mindlessly, are helping children to fail. We've got to get in there and fight. An awful lot of children's lives are at stake."

For Dr. Pilon, getting in there to fight meant switching from being an elementary schoolteacher and language arts consultant to university teaching.

"In a classroom I reached 30 children a year. At IPI I've taught 500 teachers who have at least 15,000 pupils in their classrooms. If only a few of those teacners have listened to me!

"There are only a few hours in the day and so many things to help students understand. I can't do everything in one semester, so I hope I inspire my students to go on. I hope to give them a love of teaching."

Reading is only one of Dr. Pilon's concerns. Interrelated language arts are listening, speaking and writing.

"There are many games parents can play with children to help them listen better," Dr. Pilon says.

"Communication is a two-way street. If parents and teachers don't listen to children, the children are likely to return the favor.

"Adults, too, must be aware that children have different meanings than they do for the same words. Take the simple sentence, 'A chicken is a bird who lives on a farm.' To a city youngster, 'chicken' and 'bird' have meanings far removed from poultry."

Actress Jo Ann Pflug Is Versatile and Talented

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The script notes for the movie "M-A-S-H" called for "the sexiest looking nurse in military history."

The planned production of a Western adventure film, "Catlow," calls for a strait - laced Spanish noblewoman.

Chosen to play both those roles was an eye-appealing actress with an unappealing name — Jo Ann Pflug. Pronounce it "Floog."

With a name like that you've got to be versatile — and talented.

Jo Ann is more than that, as even a quick glance will attest. Heads turn in her direction when she walks into the room — all 5-feet-9 1/2 inches of her — with her long lovely legs pulchritudinously poking out of a brown maxiskirt slit up, and up, and up, all the way up to the gunpowder in her cartridge belt.

She's an expressive and exuberant young lady, with a flair for comedy which has kept her quite busy since "M-A-S-H."

"I've made a career of 'M-A-S-H,'" jokes the Atlanta-born actress who played Lt. Dish in the popular war comedy. That's not altogether true, though "Catlow" is the first film she's doing since "M-A-S-H."

The Western — "I'm practicing my side-saddle" — is to be filmed in Spain. She'll have the second female lead — "She's very much like me: she's not married either, and she's strong-willed" — and will play opposite

JO ANN PFLUG

Yul Brynner and Richard Crenna.

In the meantime, she has done a good deal of television work and a TV movie. She's particularly enjoyed doing comedies.

"People want laughter now," says Miss Pflug, who would like to be a Kay Kendall-type comedienne, "a maintainer of feminity while being funny."

Did "M-A-S-H" help her career?

"It couldn't do anything but. I was unknown before. It made people in the business and the public aware of who I was. It's all very flattering; it was a long time ago that picture came out. I still get a lot of fan mail from fellows in Vietnam. From Japan. I answer them all personally. If someone takes the time to write you a letter, it's only courtesy to write back."

But, it's all been somewhat frustrating too for the tall, talent. "You have to wait to be offered a script. I had offers — not that many, but a number. But for one reason or another, they didn't work out.

"My head is at a level where I'd like to put together my own package. But I'm not 'big' enough I have that intellect, but not that stature."

Acting is the only thing she's ever really wanted to do. She won her first beauty contest at age 6, when a photographer snapped her picture and "he caught that devilment . . . I was looking over my shoulder; that's my best view." She was in many other beauty contests, and was runnerup for Miss Miami Beach while attending the University of Miami.

"I tried 20 million professions," she says, "but acting is the only thing I really wanted to do. Acting is the only profession a woman can do and be rewarded just for her talent. And everyone has that desire for recognition.

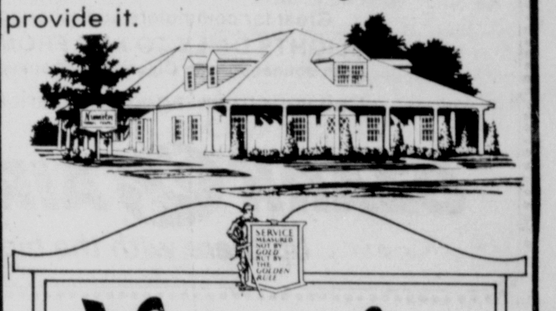

"Nursing, doctor, lawyer, school teaching, I can't do that. Secretary. I could never be confined. I like freedom; to do what I want to do.

"I'm weird in that I don't worry about making a living. The more I expect, the more I get. I'm a positive thinker. I don't believe in failure."

Cardinals End Skid; KC Splits Twinbill

Kansas City's Royals entertained a record crownd Sunday by coming up with a split with the California Angeles, while St. Louis played the soiler for the Chicago Cubs by a 5-4 margin in the Windy City.

A Cap Day crowd of 35,295, the largest in Kansas City's baseball history saw the Royals win the opener 5-1 behind the pitching and hitting of Bruce Dal Canton.

And the Royals looked like they might sweep the win bill until pitcher Tom Murphy hit a two-run double in the fourth to put the Angels ahead to stay in the night cap. The visitors ended up on the long end of an 8-4 margin.

In the first game, Dal Canton laced a two-run single and Chuck Harrison drove in a pair. Jim Spencer homered in the sixth for the only California run.

In addition to Murphy's fireworks in the second game, Spencer accounted for two runs with a single and Roger Repoz singled home another. Spencer tripled home an insurance run in the ninth.

Kansas City has won 15 out of its last 20 games.

In Chicago, Jim Beauchamp tripled home hot-hitting Joe Torre with a tying run in the eighth, then scored on Gerry McNertney's single, to give the Cards their winning margin.

Torre had homered and singled in another run. He collected four straight hits—his second such feat of this series. He accounted for the Cards first two runs, the first on the homer, the second when he singled in Matty Alou.

Joe Pepitone, who went into the game with seven straight hits, grounded out in the fourth to end the streak, but homered in the ninth for the Cubs' final run. That extended his hitting string to 19 games.

Tonight Kansas City meets the White Sox at 8 o'clock in Chicago with Jim Rooker getting the call for the Royals against Tommy John.

St. Llouis is at Los Angeles, with Bob Gibson getting back into the lineup, facing Bob O'Brien. That game starts at 10 p.m.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers Sunday signed Rob Ellis, their number one choice in the secondary phase of the free agent draft last week.

Bob Gibson

Gibby Returns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Gibson, who was 23-7 with 23 complete games last season with the St. Louis Cardinals, was taken off the 21-day disabled list Sunday by the National League Club.

Gibson, whose lack of control and consistency has led to a 4.27 earned run average, is 4-5. He is slated to start Monday night's game against Los Angeles rookie Bobby O'Brien, 1-1, in the first of a three-game series.

The Cards placed Gibson on the disabled list May 29 after he pulled a thigh muscle running out a base hit in a home game against Atlanta.

Last season, his earned run average was 3.12. This season, he's pitched only 78 innings.

O'Brien, a relief pitcher for the Dodgers in nine appearances, is making his first major league start.

Pirates Open Lead

The gates appeared to be swinging open for the New York Mets, but Deron Johnson and Willie Stargell slammed them shut in a hurry.

Philadelphia salvaged a doubleheader split at New York Sunday by beating the Mets 9-7 in 11 innings on Johnson's first bases-loaded home run in 15 professional seasons.

While the Phillies were rebounding from a 7-6 loss in the opener, the Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind to complete a doubleheader sweep and widen their lead in the National League East by slugging Montreal 7-3 on Stargell's fifth career grand slam.

The Pirtes, who won the first game 7-1 before Stargell's 24th homer of the year climaxed a seven-run seventh inning rally in the nightcap, now lead the second-place Mets by 3½ lengths.

Cincinnati floored Atlanta 5-4 and 2-0, overcoming a grand slam by rookie Earl Williams in the opener, and San Francisco swept San Diego 6-2 and 2-0 in other NL doubleheaders. St. Louis edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4 and Houston outscored Los Angeles 9-7 in single games.

The bases-loaded homers by Johnson, Stargell and Williams equalled the league record of three grand slams in one day.

In the American League, Baltimore laced the New York Yankees 10-4; Boston nipped Washington 4-3; the Chicago White Sox stomped Minnesota 18-8; Oakland divided a doubleheader with Milwaukee, winning 11-4 and then bowing 7-4, and California split with Kansas City, taking the nightcap 84 after a 5-1 loss.

Cleveland shaded Detroit 7-7 in the 11-inning opener of another AL twin bill and led 7-6 in the eighth inning of the second game when a power failure forced suspension of play.

The Mets, who struck for three ninth inning runs to win the opener, had visions of trimming Pittsburgh's division lead to 1½ games as they forged a 5-1 lead in the nightcap.

But Johnson's two-run double helped the Phils battle back to tie it, and he broke the 5-5 deadlock with a shot over the left field fence off Ron Taylor in the 11th after Terry Harmon's single, Larry Bowa's double and an intentional walk filled the bases against Jim McAndrew.

Johnson has hit nine homers this season—four of them against Met pitching.

Stargell hit a bases-empty homer and Richie Hebner drove in four runs with a homer and double as the Pirates won their opener behind Steve Blass, 8-3, who scattered nine Montreal hits.

But the Expos' Jim Britton, seeking his first victory since 1969, nursed a 1-0 lead into the seventh inning of the nightcap.

Then, pinch singles by Gene Clines and Bill Mazeroski plus a walk to Dave Cash filled the bases, bringing Mike Marshall out of the Montreal bullpen.

Vic Davalillo singled for one run, leaving the bases jammed, and Stargell hit Marshall's next pitch over the right field fence for four RBI and a season total of 65—tops in the majors.

The Pirates completed their seven-run burst of the year when Al Oliver singled and rookie Mile May homered.

Williams gave Atlanta a 4-2 sixth inning lead in the opener at Cincinnati with his first major league slam. But the Reds tied it in the eighth on doubles by Tommy Helms and Bernie Carbo, then won it on Johnny Bench's run-producing single in the ninth.

Don Gullett, 8-2, and reliever Clay Carroll teamed up to blank the Braves on five hits in the second game.

George Foster stole home in the second inning and homered in the fourth as the Reds won for the seventh time in their last nine starts.

However, they still are 13½ games behind the West Division-leading Giants, who finished off a five-game blitz of San Diego behind a five-run eighth inning rally in the opener and rookie Steve Stone's three-hit, 11-strikeout pitching in the nightcap.

Willie McCovey's three-run pinch homer capped the winning first game rally.

Joe Torre smacked four hits, including a homer, to lead the Cardinals past the Cubs despite a ninth inning homer by Joe Pepitone that stretched his hitting streak to 19 games.

The Astros spotted Los Angeles four runs in the first, then roared back as Doug Rader stroked a double and three singles to pace a 17-hit attack.

Nicklaus, Trevino Playoff

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus plays his Frankenstein monster, Lee Trevino, in an 18 hole playoff today for the 71st annual U.S. Open Golf championship.

Nicklaus and Trevino wound up in a tie Sunday after 72 holes, when Trevino missed a six foot putt and took a bogey on the 18th hole, while Nicklaus two putted for a par on the same green. They each scored a par 280 for the 72-hole test over Merion Golf Club's short but demanding course.

Nicklaus posted rounds of 69-72-68-71 and Trevino 70-72-69-68 to set up the 25th playoff in U.S. Open history.

Third round leader Jim Simons, the 21-year-old amateur from Butler, Pa., who led after three rounds, buckled under the pressure, double bogeying the final hole and winding up with a six over par 76, tied for sixth place.

The Frankenstein monster creation by Nicklaus was attested to by Trevino after he shot a one under par 69 Sunday to come from four strokes off the 54-hole pace to a tie and playoff. They will playoff starting at 1:45 p.m. EDT today.

Trevino told of how Nicklaus gave him words of encouragement last February. "And I've played unbelievable since," said the 31-year-old resident of El Paso, Tex.

It was after an exhibition in West Palm Beach, Fla., that Nicklaus and Trevino had a conversation in the locker room. Trevino recalled that he told Nicklaus that he was skipping the Masters because he didn't feel his game was geared to the course at Augusta.

"He (Nicklaus) said 'Let me tell you something.' He said 'you can play anyplace you want to.' He said 'I hope you never find out how good you can play because it will give the rest of us a little better chance to win.'"

Trevino's record since that locker room conversation is two victories, twice he missed winning by one shot, lost one playoff, finished second, fourth, 10th, 12 and 37th and earned $110,000.

Trevino tied for the lead on the 12th hole of Sunday's final round over the 6,544-yard Merion Course, treacherous layout of 124 bunkers, rough as thick as hay and greens that had Nicklaus talking to himself at times.

On the 12th, Trevino said he made a shot he almost didn't believe. He hit a nine iron that almost ran over the green, but the backspin and downward slope of the green left the ball inches from the hole. He sank the putt for a birdie three tying him with Nicklaus and Simons, who were playing together.

Trevino took the lead at the 14th where he put his drive in the fairway and his second shot about 12 inches to the left of the pin and made the putt to go one under for the tournament, a stroke ahead of Nicklaus.

The 5-foot-7 Trevino only had to make par at 18, and he would have forced Nicklaus to birdie at least one of the last two holes to tie. His second shot, however, went to the rough near the right rear of the green. He chipped to within six feet and missed for a bogey.

Nicklaus, who is seeking his 12th major golf championship, only one behind the record 13 earned by bantam Ben Hogan, had trouble all day with one oo6is best clubs, the three wood. He couldn't keep the ball in the fairway.

Nicklaus knew that he could win it all with a birdie at 18, and he gave it all he had. His booming drive was the best he hit all day, and he hit a four iron to the green 12 to 15 feet from the pin. The crowd of better than 16,000 hushed as he studied the putt.

"Actually it was an easy putt," Nicklaus related. "It was straight and I must have pulled it a few iinches off."

Dissatisfaction With NCAA Meet

SEATTLE (AP) — The top United States track and field athletes take their running and jumping show to Eugene, Ore., for the AAU championships this weekend, some hoping for a little more happiness than they found here.

A few expressed dissatisfaction in last weekend's NCAA track and field championships held at the University of Washington stadium.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon's long-distance machine seemed the unhappiest despite successfully defending his three-mile title in a meet record 13 minutes 20.1 seconds. He said he disliked the track, which he said was too hot and left his feet blistered.

"I got out of this nothing more than just a good hard workout," the 20-year-old sophomore said.

Ralph Mann managed to control his elation also after he won the intermediate hurdles in 49.6.

Miler Marty Liquori and shot put champ Karl Salb of Kansas won their events for a third straight year.

"Three days running on this hard concrete track will take something out of you," Mann said. "And that wind down the stretch was something else again. I'm looking forward to the AAU meet in Eugene."

The college athletes will be joined by open athletes in that one.

One of the glamor meetings is a return match between Liquori and world record holder Jim Ryun. The big question is the pollen count. Ryun suffers from hay fever and says he may not enter if the pollen count is high.

If Prefontaine was unhappy at one end, UCLA Coach Jim Bush balanced the scales after his Bruins won the team title, scoring 52 points to 41 for Southern Cal and 38 for Oregon despite an unsteady performance from vaunted sprinter Willie Deckard. Deckard, favored in the 100, held Friday finished last. He then failed to qualify Saturday for his other strong suit, the 220, and could only say, "I was tired. I was just tired."

Sid Sink of Bowling Green, Ohio, successfully defended his 3,000-meter steeplechase title. He won it in a collegiate record 8:30.9.

Villanova's Liquori turned in a meet record 3:57.6 victory in the mile.

National League

The Lions defeated A & B Oil Friday night, 5-2, inthe last game of National League baseball play at Puckett field. Lions remain in first place in the league, tied with Lewis Furniture with identical 5-1 records.

All five of the Lion runs came across home plate in the second inning of play. Three singles, three walks, and one error marked the big inning for the winners. Griffen, Longstreet, and Stricker belted the safeties in the inning.

Stricker went three for three at the plate for Lions, scoring one run. Teammate Medelberg belted the game's only extra base shot, a leadoff double in the third inning.

Griffin worked the mound for Lions, pitching the two-hit victory.

Both Oiler hits came in the second inning as White and Gilbow belted back to back lead off shots. White scored in the inning for the first of two A & B runs. Price walked in the fifth inning. Two errors sent him home for the final A & B Oiler score.

Griffin collected the win for the Lions. Davidson worked all six inning for the Oilers to receive the loss.

Sr. Babe Ruth

Elks remained unbeaten in Senior Babe Ruth play over the weekend as they blanked Harts Standard in Saturday's opening baseball game, 8 to one. Harts Standard has lost two games this season, both to the front running Elks.

The second contest of the night at V.F.W. Stadium was forfeited by Lindseys M & H and Leible Implement. Both teams collected losses for failing to put nine men on the field.

Bob Blankenship worked the mound for Elks, firing a one hitter. Four Harts Standard runners reached base on two walks, an error, and a single by Phil Puckett. Harts' biggest and only scoring threat came in the sixth when Rod Scudder reached third base after a walk. Blankenship worked out of the inning with three strikeouts.

The Elks battered out eight hits with their biggest barrage coming in the fourth. Two walks, three singles, and a double by Mike Mitchell pushed five Elks runners across the plate in the inning.

Mitchell and Kenny Lawrence anchored the winner.s eight - hit attack with two hits apiece. Blankenship, Reynolds, Jones and Vines each added the remaining safeties.

On the mound for Harts Standard was Gary Vaught and Richard "Snake" Howard, who worked the last inning of play. Vaught opened on the mound for Harts and was credited with the loss.

American League

Caproco and Ziegenhorn Insurance picked up victories in American League baseball play Saturday night at Farris Field.

Caproco set back Ryan Construction, 15-9, in the first game of the night. Ziegenhorn won over Sealtest in a 13-11 nightcap battle.

Eight runs in the second boosted Caproco toward the winning mark. Ryan held a slim 5-1 edge after the first inning before the big Caproco inning put it ahead to stay.

Four hits, including a bases loaded triple by Littleton, five errors, and one walk marked play in the second inning.

Caproco put the lid on the victory with six additional runs in the fourth. A single, a double, by Littleton, and three walks pushed the Caproco runners home to score.

Hurley worked the mound for the winners, striking out 10 and giving up two hits. Gardner handled the mound chores for Ryan Construction and was tagged with the loss.

Doubles by Gator and Springs were the Construction men's only hits in the game.

Bridger and Standridge both went three for four in the second game to anchor Ziegenhorn's 13-11 win over Sealtest. Ziegenhorn belted 10 hits scoring nine runs in the final two innings of play to defeat Sealtest.

Sealtest scored two runs in each of the first four innings of play, but fell victim of the late Ziegenhorn spree that put nine marks on the Insurance men's scorecard. Two singles, three doubles, and a triple were collected by the Ziegenhorn lineup in the final two innings. Sellers blasted the triple; Bridger, Gator, and Standridge the doubles in the final spree.

Hays belted one of the six Sealtest hits for a double, while teammates Green and Ledbetter added two hits apiece for Sealtest.

Sellers and Bridger teamed on the mound for Ziegenhorn. Sellers collected the win from the mound, relieving Bridger in the third inning. Hart was tagged with the loss.

West Stars Win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Barnhill, a veteran of both the National Basketball League and the American Basketball League, flashed a grin and said, "That's the way this game should be played. Nice and loose."

Barnhill, still playing for the ABA Denver Rockets, acted as coach of the West squad in Sunday's Martin Luther King Benefit game here, which attracted six NBA players and 17 ABA players.

The West made Barnhill a winning coach by downing the East squad 111-100 in the hot Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum, but the score mattered much less than the action.

A paid crowd of 6,078 was announced. The actual number of spectators appeared much less than that figure. However, the game was nationally-televised and the people there were animated.

The game was dominated by the West, but there were a number of features to keep the folks interested.

First, the East, coached by former pro and college coach John McClendon, started five hometown Indiana Pacers, much to the delight of the crowd.

Then NBA greats Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Cazzie Russell of San Francisco and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix combined with ABA starts Jimmy Jones of Memphis, Larry Jones and Mack Calvin of the Floridians and Willie Wise and Zelmo Beaty of the Utah Stars to give the fans plenty of fireworks for the West.

Finally, young John Brisker of the ABA's Pittsburgh team, the game's high-scorer with 21 points, put a topper on the show with some dazzling play for the East.

Other focal points included Calvin-led fast breaks, some sleight-of-hand passing by Monroe, Russell and Indiana's Roger Brown, and soaring dunk shots by Hawkins.

"The Hawk" was voted Most Valuable Player by the press, the second time he's won that honor in the four-year history of the game.

Six players scored in double figures for the West, led by Jimmie Jones with 14 points. Wise, Larry Jones and Monroe scored 13 each. Brown followed Brisker in the East scoring with 14 points.

John McCulloch Puts Parma In Victory Column

ESSEX—John McCulloch, former Three Rivers junior college pitching star, hurled Parma to its first win in the Southeast Missouri Men's independent baseball league Sunday. He scattered five hits and won 3-2 over Bloomfield.

He suffered the loss in a rain shortened second game, 6-1. The rain forced cancellation in the top of the sixth with runners on first and third with one out.

Parma jumped out to a 1-0 lead in both games, but Bloomfield rallied in both to gain the lead.

A seventh inning rally produced Parma's opening game win. Jimmy Cravens opened the seventh with a 400-foot triple to left center and Ron Jaynes followed with a single to tie the score. He scored the lead run after advancing to third on a throwing error and going home on a wild pitch.

Parma wants additional games. Anyone interested in playing can write James Borders at Parma.

NEW ORLEANS— Tony Licata, 161¾, New Orleans, outpointed Dave Adkins, 159¾, Boston, 10.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt announced today he will drive in both the Pocono 500 championship car race and the Firecracker 400 stock car event over the July 4 weekend.

The handsome Houston, Tex., driver said he planned to wheel a United States Auto Club entry at Pocono, Pa., on Saturday, July 3, and fly to Daytona Beach for the Firecracker 400 stock car race Sunday, July 4.

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Freitas of Swansea, Mass., will replace Gomeo Brennan in a 10-round bout with Paul Cardoza at New Bedford Monday night for the New England light heavyweight crown left vacant by the retirement of Eddie Spence of Pittsfield.

Promoter Sam Silverman announced the change Thursday night. He said Brennan was forced to withdraw because of tonsilitis.

Favorite Turkey Tales

JEFFERSON CITY--Every one of Missouri's conservation agents has a pet fund of turkey season stories, gathered from the field during the season.

The 1971 season was history's best--definitely from hunter success and just possible from the story fund as well. Doyle Beck, district supervisor assigned to Washington County, found a hunter using a 1970 tag.

The hunter claimed it was all a mistake. He just put the wrong tag on the bird. Only it was his brother's tag.

Then, Jack Stowe, Mercer County agent, talked to a hunter who had heard a Sullivan County gobbler serenading the morning and had painstakingly crawled about a half-mile...only to find the bird was a white one in a farmer's pen.

Vernon Renne, agent in Carroll County, found a hunter using a trail bike to get to his hunting area. Behind the bike, he pulled a small trailer within which squatted an artificial hen turkey, a decoy.

"When he got ready to hunt", Renne reports. "He placed his decoy where he wanted it and then covered his bike and small trailer with a camouflage net."

Quit laughing--he killed a gobler opening morning.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, the popular Puerto Rican who tied for third here a year ago, Thursday became the latest to enter the 1971 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf tournament.

Rodriguez won five PGA crowns since joining the tour 11 years ago.

HITTING — Don Kessinger, who doubled earlier and scored the tying run, opened the 10th inning with his sixth hit and scored the winning run to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

PITCHING — Dick Drago, Royals, fired a six-hitter and became the first Kansas City pitcher to ever toss consecutive shutouts in a 5-0 victory over the California Angels.

LOS ANGELES — Rodolfo Loboto, 128, Mexico, outpointed Vil Tumulak, 128, Philippines, 10.

Problems Compound

JEFFERSON CITY—Birth announcement: In a Missouri first, a brood of ducklings has been born to an adventuresome hen in a duck basket.

The Department of Conservation has: (1) about 100 mallards on its Headquarters grounds and (2) a number of duck nesting baskets made of willow from England.

The idea is that ducks nest in the baskets, which are in the water and elevated, and this discourages predators such as foxes and raccoons.

This latest brood of ducklings is the fourth blessed event among the Department ducks, but the first one in a basket. The other mother ducks merely gouged out a nest on the ground and let it go at that.

Only problem is that the ducklings of the previous broods have been picked off one by one by...Department bullfrogs. In both Holland and England, duck baskets are a traditional and successful way to raise many, many wild ducks.

Maybe they don't have bullfrogs in Holland and England....

Breakfast Cereals Are Back Despite Low Calorie Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly a year after an obscure civil engineer turned hunger crusader attacked cereals as boxes of empty calories, the old favorites are back on top of the breakfast table.

What at first blush appeared to be a buyer revolt now looks like nothing more than a fleeting spasm.

In the immediate wake of the charges leveled against dry cereals by Robert Choate in testimony before a Senate committee, many a consumer switched to highly fortified brands, and these products still claim scattered pockets of loyalty.

But the Big Three manufacturers—Kellogg, Post and General Mills—say their customers settled back into old buying habits within two months.

The nation's largest food chain, A&P, said a spot check of their stores confirmed the general pattern. Two exceptions were Chicago's Jewel Food Stores and Washington's Giant Food, regional chains which support consumer information programs. They said the heavily fortified cereals seized an additional 12 to 20 per cent of the market at their stores, and are holding onto the new business.

Since Choate testified that dry cereals "have calories and little else," makers of the popular brands have introduced more nutritious products, but they have said they were planning them all along, anyway.

The government is working on two studies, one of competition within the industry; the other of possible limits on fortification of cereals. Neither has been completed.

Choate has gone into food crusading full time from his Washington office, but he has switched the emphasis of his attacks on the food industry to criticism of its advertising, particularly its television advertising.

"The press picked up the nutritional aspect and sort of skipped over the advertising," he said in an interview. "So I've been concentrating on the advertising."

Choate contended his testimony hit the industry hard and enhanced the in-house positions of nutritionists, who he claims had been subservient to the advertising men.

The industry-supported Cereal Institute, as well as the cereal manufacturers themselves, cite nutrition education efforts which include advertisements, pamphlets, teacher resource kits and classroom games in which the winner is the team with the best breakfast over a few weeks' time. The most extensive of the industry-wide efforts, package panels with nutritional information, got started about the same time Choate testified.

Kellogg's has increased fortification of its presweetened cereals to account for a third of the minimum daily adult requirement for eight crucial vitamins. General Mills has come out with some super-fortified "monster cereals" called "Frankenberry" and "Count Chocula," and Post is introducing "Pebbles."

The new cereals were being planned before Choate's blast and have nothing to do with him, said a Kellogg spokesman. "People are just generally interested in nutrition who have not been before."

The Federal Trade Commission acknowledged it has received responses from all six companies involved in its investigation of whether tha breakfast cereal industry is controlled by so few firms that effective competition is impossible. Beyond that, FTC officials refused to comment.

Six months ago, aiFood and Drug Administration hearing examiner submitted recommendations on what the FDA should do with a proposal which would impose limits on fortification of cereals. There are no limitations now, and a Kellogg's spokesman said at least two of his firm's cereals couldn't be marketed under the proposed regulations, which have been kicking around FDA for years.

FDA officials won't disclose the hearing examiner's recommendation.

Violence Erupts In Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Springfield fire officials reported early this morning an apparent fire bomb was thrown through a window of a bedspread shop seven blocks from Park Central Square.

Damage to the store was reported to be light.

The incident marred what officials said had been an otherwise peaceful night, in contrast with previous nights.

Both public officials and members of the black community are said to be awaiting an announcement today by Greene County Prosecutor Dee Wampler. He is to announce his findings from an invsstigation into the death of a black man, Michael Dunlap, 21, who was shot June 9 by a white Springfield police officer, John D. Barnes.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Dunlap was shot in a struggle for the officer's revolver.

There have been nightly reports of disturbances and some firebombings since the jury returned its verdict. Black leaders have called for an end to the violence and urged demonstrators to await Wampler's decision.

"Everything is focusing toward me now ... it's a very inflammatory situation," Wampler said.

Springfield's city council met in special session Saturday night and granted Mayor Carl Stillwell the power to impose a curfew in Park Central, Springfield's downtown square.

Fire officials say two fires at residences Saturday night were the result of a domestic quarrel not the racial unrest.

Campaign Most Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — it cost Richard M. Nixon a record $35 million to become president in 1968, a new study says.

Compiled by the nonpartisan Citizens' research Foundation, the report says a record $100 million was spent by all the presidential candidates, including early losers in the primaries.

The reason for the huge amount were the pitched fights in both major parties. Nearly as much money was spent altogether by candidates in the pre-convention free -for -all as in the general election.

Nixon spent $10 million or more on the primary trail, the study says, then added $24.9 million in the November race. The latter figure along equalled the total for both candidates' spending in the 1964 presidential race.

Nixon's richest individual campaign support came from W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance executive, who gave $154,000 in the fall; Max Fisher, Detroit industrialist, $103,000; and Henry Salvatori, Los Angeles oil explorer, $83,000.

Eban Wants Soviets To Take First Step

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli government expects the Soviet Union to initiate steps to resume contacts broken off at the time of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Sunday.

"Such an initiate is desirable and Israel is ready for it," Eban told a meeting of American Jews in Jerusalem. He said Moscow realizes it cannot ignore Israel's importance in the Middle East and needs some understanding with Israel.

Romania is the only member of the Soviet bloc that did not break diplomatic relations with Israel because of the 1967 war.

Meanwhile Premier Saeb Salam of Lebanon was beginning a three-day official visit to Jordan today, and there was speculation he would try to mediate between King Hussein's government and the Palestinian guerrillas who continue to challenge the Jordanian army.

Salam met with guerrillas leader Yasir Arafat Sunday night for a review of the situation.

Other talks on the Middle East situation opened Sunday in Cairo between President Anwar Sadar and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Informed sources said Faisal brief Sadat on his talks with President Nixon during his recent visit to Washington, while Sadat told his guest about his talks last month in Cairo with Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The sources said the two leaders would try to adopt a unified stand. In the past, the Egyptians have been far more militant than the conservative Saudi monarchy.

Also in Cairo, the Egyptian state prosecutor ordered the confiscation of all properties and bank assets of former Vice President Aly Sabry, former armed forces commander Gen. Mohamed Fawzi and five other former ministers and officials. The seven are held under house arrest on charges of plotting to overthrow Sadat last month.

In the Gaza Strip, police discovered the body of another murdered Arab woman, and 26 of the Strip's 30 bus drivers refused to work because of terrorists's threats of violence to their families. There have been 50 murders in the Strip this year. Police believe most of them were killed for collaborating with the Israelis or working for them.

Hero Praises Drugs In Combat

DETROIT (AP) — A Medal of Honor winner says he was "stoned" on marijuana the night he fought off two waves of Viet Cong soldiers and won America's highest military honor.

"It was the only time I ever went into combat stoned," Peter Lemon, 21, said in Tawas City during an interview with Detroit Free Press reporter Howard Kohn.

"You get really alert when you're stoned because you have to be.

"We were all partying the night before. We weren't expecting any action because we were in a support group," the soft-spoken Lemon recalled.

"All the buys were heads," Lemon said, using a slang term for marijuana smokers. "We'd sit around smoking grass and getting stoned and talking about when we'd get to go home."

It was April 1, 1970, when Lemon, an Army Spec. 4, used his rifle, machine gun and hand grenades to smash a large attack on his position.

He fought the enemy hand-tohand and dragged a wounded comrade to the rear before collapsing from exhaustion and three wounds. At a medical center, he refused treatment until more seriously injured men had been cared for.

Lemon said he almost decided not to accept the Medal of Honor from President Nixon at White House ceremonies last week.

"That was one of my first thoughts," he said. "But it was just a little thought. I guess you can't split the medal up among 12 guys, but that's who it really belongs to.

"I'll tell you this, too. I'd trade it in a minute if it could bring back my three buddies" who were killed in the battle, at Tay Ninh near the Cambodian border.

Lemon let his hair grow long and bushy after his discharge Dec. 4, but he cut it and his long sideburns for the White House presentation.

"I got about three inches cut off. But the first thing when I got to Washington some military aides started to hassle me to get it cut some more."

He said he is antiwar, though not necessarily antimilitary.

His 12 months of fighting in Vietnam were filled with incidents of callousness, desperation, rebellion, unfriendliness, and escape through drugs, he said.

He said he saw a Korean officer point-blank shoot to death three enemy soldiers who wanted to surrender, and said a hated lieutenant was blown up while sitting in an outdoor toilet by a grenade tossed by a GI.

He also said, "I just got real tired of the South Vietnamese coming up and saying, 'What are you Americans doing here?'"

"The war is ridiculous. How would we like it if we went to war with Canada and the Russians or the Chinese came over here and wanted to help us?" Lemon asked.

"Fanfare" Receives Excellent Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — The educational television stations' "Fanfare" hour Sunday night was an American version of a French one-man show, but more than anything else a 60minute demonstration of novel effects that can be used to entertain the eye as well as the ear.

The star was the French singer and composer Gilbert Becaud who sang—mostly his own numbers—for the hour. The show was almost entirely in French, although Becaud's English seemed very good when he used it.

Just about every camara trick in the book was used around him, all sorts of double and triple exposures. At one point he was singing in front of a moving gallery of old French posters. One whole number was built around oranges, another around roses and still another around flashlights and all created bizarre effects.

From beginning to end, everything but the music was unusual. In fact, the backgrounds were so ingenious and novel that they became the foreground, throwing the show out of shape.

Still, the hour should be an inspiration for those who produce the home-grown variety hours which, particularly this last season, have slipped into a dull rut.

Day-time Sunday programming—on and off the networks— seems to involve bunches. There are all the kiddy shows early in the day, followed by a scattering of religious programs. Shortly after noon there come, in rapid succession, three news interview programs, one per network. After noon, when not dedicated to sports, are hours when one may get his fill of really old and usually very bad movies.

It sometimes seems a waste that three of the best news interview shows arrive at what for many people is a busy part of the day—12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

This Sunday, CBS' "Face the Nation" kicked off the period with a leisurely and interesting interview with presidential aspirant Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. It was followed by NBC's "Meet the Press" with a father's day special starring Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and his son, Rep. James W. Symington, D-Mo. Finally there was ABC's "Issues and Answers" with a pre-taped interview with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt.

The simple format of "Face the Nation" and "Meet the Press"—well-prepared, aggressive questioners who keep the controls on the questioners' side—is very satisfactory from the viewers' standpoint.

"Issues and Answers" depends more on the fluency of the guest than on the skills of the interviewers.

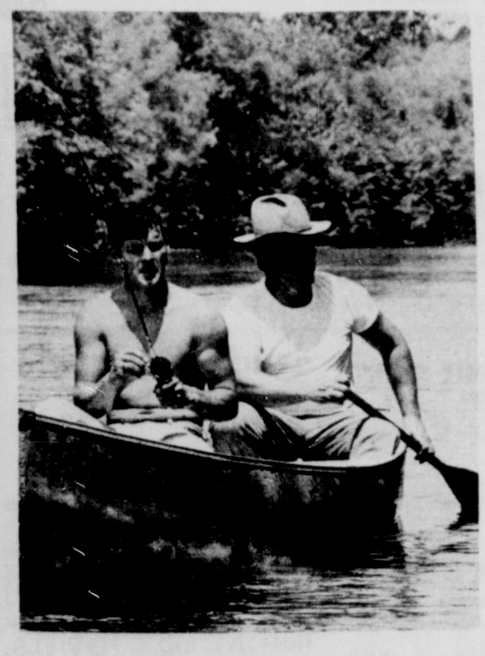

Until the last few holes in the finals of the U.S. Open Sunday, ABC seemed to be broadcasting the most dramatic golf tournament of the year. Jim Simons, a 21-year-old amateur was out in front of the pack of the nation's best professional golfers.

He fell behind at the end, and Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, who were tied, were to play off a sudden death match today.

St. Louis Firm Bids Low on Project

CHARLESTON — Brunson Construction Co. of St. Louis was the apparent low bidder on a 110 -unit housing project for Charleston when bids were opened Thursday at the Housing Authority office.

Brunson's bid was $1,589,200.

Authority sources said the bid is about $56,000 higher than the amount budgeted for construction, but added that little trouble is expected in securing approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development on the final contract.

Other bidders on the job were McDaniel Brothers Construction Co., Jonesboro, Ark., $1,660,140; Ralph E. boyer Contractor, Sikeston, $1,668,000; and Hardaway Construction Co., Nashville, Tenn., $1,847,000.

A spokesman for the construction firm indicated Thursday that he would be ready to begin building just as soon as the contract is signed. Richard Logan, executive director of the Authority, said this could possibly be within the next two weeks, but added that this depends upon the speed of HUD's final approval of the contract.

Funding of the project of $1,892,493 was announced Mar. 3, in Washington by George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, through Missouri's senators and Congressman Bill Burlison.

The grant provides for construction of 70 units for low-income families, and 40 units of housing for the elderly.

Logan said the 40 units of housing for the elderly will be built on a 3-acre tract located behind the Armory, which is presently under option by the Housing Authority. The 70 units of general occupancy housing will be built on a tract owned by Charles Telker, and located behind Atteberry Dairy in the Kimes Addition. The Authority also has an option on this property.

There will be four apartments to the unit in the elderly housing project, and the general - occupancy housing will consist of duplexes, except for six four-bedroom units, which will be single - family structures.

Included in the plans are 16 efficiency apartments, all in the elderly project; 40 one-bedroom, 30 two - bedroom, 18 three - bedroom, and 6 four - bedroom units.

Logan said the Authority will not accept applications for the new housing until construction is 70 per cent completed.

Completion of the project should come in the fall of 1972, Logan said.

Members of the Housing Authority, on hand for the bid opening last Thursday included Carson, vice chairman W. D. Purnell, Milton Clack, Herbert Marshall and Rowe Powell.

First Missouri Corn Blight Confirmed

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)–Missouri's first confirmed southern corn leaf blight this year has been located northwest of St. Louis, a University of Missouri-Columbia plant pathologist said Thursday.

But Binar Palm, chairman of the university's corn leaf blight committee, said that no widespread southern corn leaf blight is indicated at this time.

Palm said the confirmed blight on volunteer corn was located in Lincoln County. Palm made the confirmation following a trip to the field where the blight was found.

Bill Would Push Social Security Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wellpaid 35-year-old worker today could look forward to Social Security retirement pay up to $1,500 a month in his old age under provisions of pending legislation, Rep. Charles A. Vanik says.

The Ohio Democrat projected the effects of the bill in a House speech Thursday.

He emphasized the provisions for automatic incresses in benefits and taxes, as the cost of living and average wage go up.

Assuming the living cost index rises 2.3 per cent a year and wages 4.5 per cent, he said, the worker drawing the maximum covered by Social Security could retire at 65 with a basic monthly benefit of $810.60.

If his wife is also 65, the total for the couple would be $1,215.90. By the time they reached 75, the figure would be $1,530, Vanik said.

Two Escape From Farm

FORDLAND— Gordon Lee Cooper, 50, of Gideon, and Jefferson Junior Loflin, 28, of Anniston, escaped Sunday night from the honor camp detention farm, the highway patrol said.

Details of the escape were not available.

Cooper was serving a life sentence for armed robbery and Loflin was serving a five-year sentence for tampering with an automobile.

The pair have not been apprehended.

LINCOLN MEMENTO

ROBINSON, Ill. (AP) — Lincoln Trail College, a new institution, has received a piece of history for its collection of objects commemorating the era of Abraham Lincoln.

A 75-year-old set of Conestoga wagon hoops was donated by the Morris Davis family. They were brought to the Davis home in Annapolis in 1896 by the late John Newlin, Mrs. Davis' great-uncle.

Booker New Steele Mayor

STEELE, Mo., — Jerry V. Jones, a drug store owner, said Wednesday he will not contest the results of Tuesday's municipal election that saw him lose a race for mayor by eight votes.

"I'm satisfied with the results of the election," Jones said.

Steele's new mayor is Lloyd Booker, a grocery store owner. he replaces former Mayor Ed Aumon, who resigned.

Booker polled 302 votes to Jones' 294.

Steele residents also elected a new chief of police to replace Bill Stanfield, who died in May after a heart attack.

The new chief of police is Billy Joe Stanfield, son of the former chief.

Stanfield received 286 votes to 239 for Tommy German, a former deputy sheriff.

The terms of Stanfield and Booker will expire in April.

LONDON (AP) — Gas output soared by 16 per cent to a record level in Britain in 1970 with natural gas accounting for 70 per cent of all supplies.

Use of coal in gas manufacture fell from six million tons in 1969 to under three million tons.

RISCO HIGH SCHOOL CHEERLEADERS ATTEND CLINIC

The Risco High School A and B cheerleading squads attended the firstsession of the 14th annual Cheerleading Clinic at the Arkansas State University in Jonesboro Sunday, June 6 — Firday, June 11. The girls were taught new cheers, tumbling and pom - pom routines by 12 instructors who were employed by the National Cheerleaders Association in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Gladys Hudgins, assistant professor of physical education and ASU cheerleader sponsor, was director of the clinic.

At the close of each of the five daily sessions each squad was evaluated by the instructors as they demonstrated two cheers, one of which had to be a new one learned at the clinic. During these mass assemblies in the fieldhouse some lucky squads who came up to standard achievement were presented ribbons. The Risco A squadreceived one ribbon for Honorable Mention and four ribbons for outstanding performances. This group also was the recipeint of the coveted N.C.A. Spirit Stick for their outstanding display of spirit and enthusiasm during one session.

The B squad received two ribbons for honorable mention and three outstanding performance awards. They, also, received the N.C.A. Spirit Stick during one session.

The girls were accompanied by their sponsor, mrs. Pauline Allen, who is treating the group to an ice - cream social soon in appreciation of their excellent behavior and accomplishments at the clinic.

The Bunko Club met Saturday evening at the thome of Mrs. Clifford Boner. During the evening of games refreshments were served to Mrs. Gail LunBeck, mrs. Charles Kirksey, Mrs. Donnie Lancaster, Mrs. Freida Lawson, Mrs. Ralph Blough, Mrs. James Finch and her guest, Wanda.

The Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball home games this year will be as follows: June 15, Lilbourn; June 22, Marston; June 25, Parma; July 6, New Madrid; and July 20, Lilbourn.

Other game dates are not available, except for the tournament to be held July 26-30. The location is indefinite.

Sgt. Mitchell Walker of Barksdale A.F.B., Shreveport, La., spent the weekend of his leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walker. Sgt. Walker leaves June 20 for Hawaii, where he will be on a 30-day special assignment.

Mrs. Jim Byington, counselor for Tallapoosa Baptist Acteens Group, accompanied the following girls to Friendship Camp for a session Monday through Thursday: Pam Cunningham, Jane Landers, Vicki Tolbert and Vicki Albright. mrs. Byington's two sons also accompanied their group.

A group of Acteens from the Risco First Baptist Church also attended this weeks camp session.

Mrs. Rayvon Knapp was hostess Monday evening to the Tallapoosa Baptist Womens group at her home.

The missionary study program was on Japan and the group held regular business session, during which plans were made to hold their annual prayer retreat Thursday, July 22 at the Fortner Pond.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. W. M. Fortner, Mrs. Hugh Landers, Mrs. Jim Byington, Mrs. Kenny Carlisle, Mrs. Francis Clark and Mrs. Erma Cole.

A group of 4-Hers met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Landers to discuss entries of exhibits at the annual 4-H Fair and to complete work on the 4-H Scrapbooks.

Those present were Vanessa Gibbs, Sandra Wilson, Chris Landers, Steve, Ted and Brent Landers.

Kippy and David Crouthers and Harry Wayne Gremore were among several members o the Parma Boyscout Troop who participated in the annual Boyscout Campout at Lake Wappapello Sunday through Saturday. The Scouts held Parents Night Thursday evening, when several parents visited the campsite.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bird attended the wedding Saturday of Miss Lynn Radcliffe to Larry Howarat the First Methodist Church in Osceola, Ark.

Mrs. Raymond May was hostess Thursday afternoon to members of the Risco Rural Independent Club for the June meeting.

President, Mrs. Tom Pearson, opened the meeting by leading the group in The Lord's Prayer. Roll Call was How I Boost My Husband's Morale. After a business session which included planning the work schedule at the Fourth of July Picnic, a demonstration of the various steps of Decoupage was given by Mrs. Don Landers and instruction sheets were given to those present.

The hostess served refreshments during the social period to those mentioned and to Mrs. Tom Kizer, mrs. R. E. Dockrey, Mrs. P.C. Crouthers, Mrs. Gentry May, Mrs. Verly McCord, Mrs. Mae Kizer, a guest, and to Christi and Susan Pearson.

Mrs. Crouthers is hostess for the July 8 afternoon meeting.

Two Selected For Freedom Forum Parley

LILBOURN - Teresa Dale Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Thompson and Laura Kathryn Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Mitchell, have been selected by the New Madrid County Farm Bureau to attend Missouri Freedom Forum June 27—July 1 in Mexico, Mo.

Miss Thompson and Miss Mitchell were nominated by their school principal. Their selection was based on character, scholarship, and leadership abilities.

They are students at Lilbourn high school, where they will be members of the senior class next year.

Fontaine Loses Home But Friends Give It Back

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—Comedian Frankie Fontaine lost his home in an Internal Revenue Service auction but got it back moments later from a group of friends who had submitted the high bid for it.

"It's great to have buddies like these guys," Fontaine said. "There's nothing like having friends like this."

The house was auctioned Friday by the IRS to pay off some of the $450,000 it says Fontaine owes in back taxes and penalties.

A group called "Friends of Frankie Fontaine Committee" raised nearly $60,000 at a benefit for the comedian in May. Frank Shilesky of Arlington, committee chairman, said the bid on the house "used up all the monies derived from the benefit."

The amount of the bid was not announced. The auction was held at the IRS office in Lowell.

EITHER FEATHER-LIGHT pipe or muscles of iron would appear to be the case here. Actually, it's a trick done not with mirrors but a crane, out of sight, which suspends a three-ton section of steel diversion pipe used in a U.S. Corps of Engineers flood control project on the Rouge River at Detroit. In all, more than a half-mile of Armco Hel-Cor eight-foot pipe is used and then reused as work progresses.

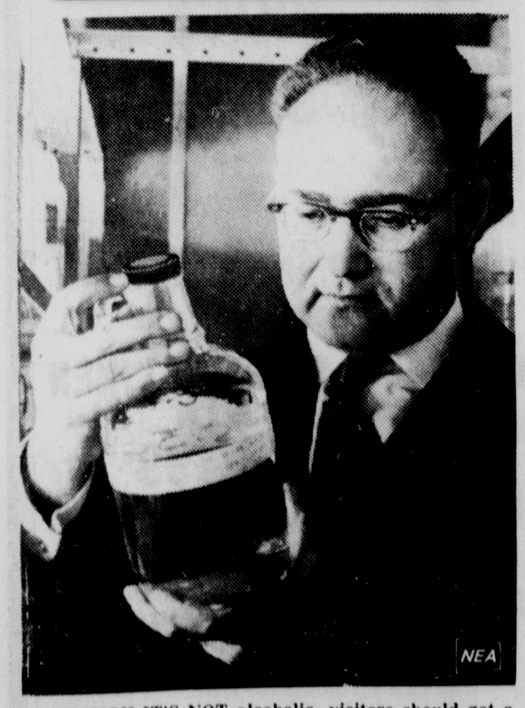

AWFUL TRUTH about what is ahead for drivers is boldly proclaimed on this sign by the side of the road to Skipper's Saddle, an old mining town in New Zealand. The route is so rough drivers are advised to leave cars in a parking lot and make the trip by bus.

Bangla Desh

—the dream of an independent Bengal nation—is still alive in East Pakistan despite military suppression of the recent uprising against domination by West Pakistan. Young Bengalis hug the mud, right, training for guerrilla warfare at an unidentified point inside East Pakistan where the West Pakistan army, equipped with modern weapons from major powers, has an overwhelming military advantage. Below, refugees from the struggle in East Pakistan crowd a camp in India 75 miles from Calcutta. An estimated three million Bengalis have fled to India, raising serious food and health problems.

Sheriff Questions Debt Auditor Found

KENNETT — The state auditor's office may say he owes Dunklin County more than $25,000, Sheriff Raymond Scott said Friday, "but they won't be able to collect it."

"I am prepared to pay the county any amount that is legally owing," the sheriff said, "But six years ago they said I owed $18,000 and they were never able to collect it."

The audit, released Thursday by State Auditor Christopher Bond, says the sheriff owes Dunklin County $24,554 for the years 1964 to 1969. The report said there also is a $448 shortage in Mr. Scott's trust fund.

"I've been sheriff 22 years and I've never heard of a trust fund," Mr. Scott said. "And none of the other sheriffs I've talked to have heard of it."

The audit claims that $9,910 that Mr. Scott received in mileage fees for transporting prisoners to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City should have been turned over to the county treasurer, but instead was kept by the sheriff.

The sheriff said that turning the money in is an unnecessary formality.

"I'm supposed to bill the county and they turn right around and give me my money back," he said. "I guess I should do it because the state only gives me seven cents a mile and the county allows me 10 cents. I could get another $1,000 or so back."

What about the $14,643 that the auditor says the sheriff owes because he withheld fees in excess of the amount allowable?

"They say I'm not entitled to it, and I say I Am," Mr. Scott replied. "This is the same thing the auditor claimed six years ago when they set me up $18,000 short.

"They weren't able to collect it then and they won't be able to collect it now."

The sheriff said he has been at odds with the auditor for some years.

"It's just a matter of the auditor's being Republican and this being a solid Democratic county," Sheriff Scott said.

Savage General Manager of Moore's Stores

BRAINTREE, Mass. — The appointment of Edwin M. Savage of Roanoke, Va., to senior vice president and general manager of Moore's Super Stores, headquartered in Roanoke, was announced today by Mike Grossman, president of the Evans Products Company retail group of which both Grossman's and Moore's are divisions.

In his new capacity, Savage will supervise all business operations in the 46 retail outlets of Moore's division. He was formerly senior vice president - operations for Moore's lumber and building materials outlets which in combination with Grossman's now form a chain of 144 stores from Maine to Missouri.

That's The Law
Unemployment for Jailee

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hennessey was no mathematician, but on occasion numbers intoxicated him. Particularly, when he was out boozing with the boys. After knocking off a bottle of Three Feathers, Four Roses and Seven Crown, he was ready to drink even Beethoven's Fifth if he could find it.

On one such occasion, however, he got so potted he arrested for being inebriated in public and was sentenced to 30 days in the pokey. And, if that wasn't bad enough, his boss canned him for being in the can during that time instead of at work.

Thirty days later, Hennessey, finding himself both out of jail and out of work, applied for unemployment benefits.

"You're a good man, Hennessey," he was told, "but a man who voluntarily leaves his job without good cause isn't entitled to unemployment benefits."

"Who left his job voluntarily?" questioned Hennessey. "The only way I could have gotten to work was by staging a jailbreak. Certainly, you didn't want me to do that. Believe me, I would have much preferred to have punched the clock than mark time in a cell."

Determined to collect unemployment benefits, Hennessey took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Hennessey to collect?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Hennessey had not left his work voluntarily since he obviously had had no desire to be in jail. In so ruling, the judge pointed out that he was present at a place (in jail) where he did not wish to be and was absent from a place where he did wish to be (at work).

African Continent Has Growing Pains

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON— The 41-nation Organization of African Unity will open its 1971 summit meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Monday. "Africa is a continental experiment in nation building," commented President Nixon in his state of the world message to Congress early this year. "The excitement and enthusiasm of national birth have phased into the more sober period of growth." Sober, indeed.

The new nations that emerged between 1956-64 from under the canopy of colonial rule have in some cases slid back into the darkness. White author Barnett Potter created a stir throughout Africa with a recent book, The Fault, Black Man..., that describes independent Africa as the land of the begging bowl.

"There are nearly 40 of them and hardly one pays its way," he wrote. "They stay alive thanks to grants-in-aid, loans and various forms of subvention, but they contribute little if anything to the sum of human happiness and welfare and less to the total of human knowledge and goodness." Potter believes Black Africa incapable of an industrial revolution.

Much of the idealism that characterized the early days of independence has vanished. Jonathan Kwitny, a former teacher in Nigeria, tells how the goals of prosperity and black brotherhood have been defeated: "The statesmen of Africa clawed at each other for wealth and power, in the process transferring substantial portions of their nations' treasuries to personal bank accounts in Switzerland. When the legendary freedom fighters fell in military coups d'etat, few rallied to support them. Today one army faction supplants another as African governments slide toward a Latin American sterility."

But Ruth First points out in Power in Africa (1971) that many of Africa's difficulties are the legacy of colonialism. And the developed nations of the world--the United States included--have not provided the new states with more than token assistance. The 41 independent states with 300 million people have been receiving a total of $150 million annually in U.S. foreign aid.

Unsuccessful in forging unified nations, the African leaders also have found the goal of continental unity elusive. Some observers believe the Organization of African Unity (OAU) will survive its upcoming meeting only in name. After eight years, the OAU is split not only by race, language, religion and politics but by different visions.

One group of member nations regards the OAU as a "Holy Alliance" dedicated to preserving the status quo. They stress preservation of existing borders and non-interference in internal affairs of member states. An activist faction of the OAU, on the other hand, hopes for an economic and social transformation in Africa and sees the OAU as a means of mobilizing resources for the liberation of territories under white minority rule.

The "Holy Alliance" countries are still in the majority, and radical leaders are described as disillusioned. Old Africa hand Russell Warren Howe reports that the summit conference "is expected to polarize the radical and moderate blocs in Africa, with Emperor Haile Selassie playing his usual role as mediator."

One showdown will come over Ivory Coast President Felix Houphouet-Boigny's proposal for a diplomatic "dialogue" with white-ruled South Africa. Twenty-eight countries with 69 per cent of the continent's population oppose such a "dialogue", including the nine largest African nations. Despite such pangs of disunity, total disintegration of the OAU probably will be avoided.

Leader Says Bar Will Seek Judicial Reform Elsewhere

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., (AP) — The president elect of the Missouri Bar, Ernest M. Fremont Jr. of Kansas City, said Friday the bar no longer is going to recommend changes in the judicial system and then stand idly by and watch the proposals die in the legislature.

During the legislative session just ended, Fremont said in a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the State Judicial . Conference, bills for judicial revision and for a public defender system died.

Even with concerted efforts of the bench and bar, he said, it is apparently impossible to achieve needed changes under the present legislative system.

"I propose that we again fire up the plan for a complete revision of the judicial articale," he said, "and direc our efforts at obtaining it either through an initiative petition or through a constitutional convention."

A proposal for a new constitutional convention died on first round debate in the House months ago.

He said that the time has come when the organized bar must take the lead in seeing to it that the judiciary is truly an equal branch of government and not a political subdivision, whose efficiency depends on the whim of politicians—to see to it that the third and equal branch of government is removed from the position of being a supplieant which must stand silently with outstretched hand, awaiting its dole, while being flagellated for the inefficiences of a system which it is powerless to change."

He said in the past the bar has preferred not to have a legislative representative—or lobbyist—on the payroll. But that era is ending.

"The board of governors has now decided that it would be wise to have a person on the staff whose primary duty would be legislative representation," Fremont said. "We are now actively seeking a mature, experienced lawyer for this position."

This week, Fremont said, 30 teachers are enrolled in an intensive two-week course to familiarize them with the judicial system, the legal system and due process of law. They will take their newly acquired knowledge back to their classrooms and the results of the pilot program will be assessed at the end of the coming school year, Fremont said.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, June 21, the 172nd day of 1971. There are 193 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1788, the U.S. Constitution went into effect as New Hampshire became the ninth state to ratify it.

On this date:

In 1834, inventor Cyrus McCormick obtained a patent for his reaper.

In 1898, the first U.S. troops landed in Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1919, in World War I, German sailors scuttled part of a German fleet interned at Scapa Flow in Scotland.

In 1942, in World War II, 30,000 British soldiers were taken prisoner when Tobruk, Libya, fell to the Germans.

In 1954, John Landy of Australia established a new World's record when he ran the mile in three minutes, 58 seconds at Turku, Finland.

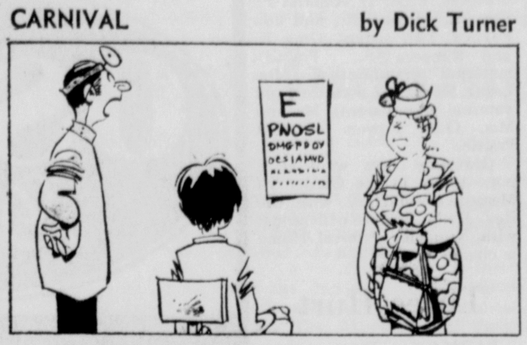

In 1963, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Milan, Italy, was elected pope. He took the name of Paul VI.

Ten years ago: U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said his visits to 10 South American countries indicated that U.S. prestige had been hurt by the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba.

Five years ago: King Faisal of Saudi Arabia arrived in Washington for talks with President Lyndon B. Johnson.

One year ago: Marine Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz of Wierton, W. Va., was sentenced to life in prison in the killing of 12 Vietnamese women and children.

Thirty Five Teachers Gather in Reunion

Graduation reunions are a popular event but a teacher reunion is a rare occasion.

Thirty five former teachers, their wives and husbands, and guests honored former School Superindent, R.A. Harper, who served in Sikeston from 1937 to 1944.

Arranged by Maurice Stewart, Jefferson City, who taught diversified occupations under Harper and assisted by Tharon Stallings and Lonnie Standley, gathered the teachers at the Ramada Inn Saturday night for a banquet.

Among those speaking to the gathering were Harper, Garland Parker, now vice provost for admissions at University of Cincinnati; Stallings, who followed Harper as superintendent; Laurence Knepper, Webster Groves; Electa O'Hara; Vernon Green of Memphis; Jean Collins, and Standley.

The teachers gathered in Sikeston Saturday and at 1 p.m. were taken on a tour of the school grounds. Another tour was taken of the city, with Clem Beal, a 1938 graduate of Sikeston high, the conductor.

The group returned to the Ramada Inn for a reception at 5 p.m.

Following the banquet many were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Collins.

Corn Blight In Six Iowa Counties

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Southern corn leaf blight has turned up in six more Iowa counties, bringing to 16 the number thus far infested, according to the Iowa State University leaf blight committee.

The committee Friday identified the six new counties as Tama, Black Hawk, Hardin, Page, Hamilton and Carroll.

The committee pointed out that a county is put on the "infested" category if just one corn field in the county is infected with the blight.

Iowa State University extension entomologist, Harold Gunderson, said also that corn borer infestations running as high as 100 per cent have been reported in some southeast Iowa counties.

He said a southeastern Iowa survey last week showed corn borers at the rate of 10 to 1,000 borers per 100 plants in corn standing 30-40 inches with leaves extended.

Western Iowa corn also has been attacked by army worms, which usually tend to begin feeding in pastures or small grain fields and then move to corn fields.

Army worms have been particularly noticeable in minimum tillage fields and in corn fields where the grass has been killed by herbicides, said Gunderson.

State School Funds Distributed

NEW MADRID— State public school funds totalling $490,098 have been disbursed to county schools by County Treasurer W. R. Phillips Jr.

Districts and amounts received are Risco, $40,004; Gideon, $56,256; and New Madrid R-1 Enlarged, $393,838.

CAPETOWN, S. Africa (AP) University students are rendering the world a service by rejecting the cultural impulses that lead to racism, militarism, social and economic injustice, the Rev. Dr. W.A. Visser 't Hooft, honorary president of the World Council of Churches, told a University of Capetown audience.

HUMANE OFFICER JIM SHERWOOD, holds a 38-inch boa constrictor that he found in the vicinity of Brannum Street. He is keeping the snake in a box at his home at the request of Police Sgt. Leonard Campbell, who said it was probably a pet.

Graveside rites were at 3 p.m. today in the Garden of Memories cemetery with the Rev. Kelly Tolbert officiating, with Nunnelee Funeral Home in charge.

Three Hurt

PARMA— Three were injured in a two-car mishap at 6:45 p.m. Saturday three miles north of Parma on highway 153.

A 1969 Dodge going north, driven by Nat Bennett, 71, of Parma, attempted to pass a northbound 1970 Ford, driven by Caroline Sue Powers, 20, of Campbell, the highway patrol said, and struck the Ford when the Ford attempted to pass a tractor.

The driver of the Ford sustained minor injuries. Shirley Powers, 22, of Campbell, a passenger in the Ford, sustained internal injuries. Another passenger in the Ford, Roger Gill, 23, of Riverside, N.J., sustained a head injury.

All were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

TRUSTING THE UNKNOWABLE

NEW YORK (AP) Christian fundamentalism, which rejects critical analysis of the Bible, "pretends to offer men security where there can be no security," says famed German theologian Rudolph Bultmann.

In a new book on his works issued by Doubleday, "The Thought of Rudolf Bultmann," by Andre Malet, the influential, but controversial theologian says faith provides no answer to "the riddle of life."

Rather, faith is sheer "trust in the grace of God which has called man to life and gives life a meaning, even though man does not see the meaning yet."
